Bradley Resumes Testimony; Davey Plans Perjury Suit

Witness Leaves To Get 'Proof' He Acted as Governor's 'Contact Man' To Get Cash For Campaign; $25,000 Donation From Auto Firm Denied as Governor Fires Back.

The senate graft investigation committee today prepared to inspect what Lee Bradley, self-identified contact man for Gov. Martin L. Davey called proof of his activities on Davey's behalf, while the governor announced that he would institute at the earliest possible moment, perjury proceedings against Bradley.

The committee, which heard Bradley's testimony in Cleveland yesterday, returned to Columbus today. Bradley left Cleveland last night for Pittsburgh to get his documentary evidence concerning deals which he said he made for Davey.

The governor, after denouncing Bradley's story as an "unqualified falsehood" asserted today that he would sue Bradley on a perjury charge.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — The Ohio senate graft investigating committee today gave Lee Bradley an opportunity to offer evidence which Bradley contends will support his testimony that he acted as a "contact man" to obtain campaign contributions for Martin L. Davey before the latter first was elected governor.

Bradley testified before the senate committee in Cleveland yesterday that certain utilities intrests agreed to contribute $175,000 to Davey's campaign and that officials of the General Motors Truck corporation agreed to contribute $25,000, in return for favors which could be granted after election.

Papers in Safe Box.

Bradley promised to appear before the committee here later today with documents which he said had been kept in a safety deposit box in Pittsburgh.

Bradley said he would produce letters from the Chrysler Motors Fargo division concerning an appointment with Davey before his first inauguration. Bradley testified yesterday he had promised Chrysler "30 per cent of the state's business" if it would support Davey's campaign.

He also said he would produce correspondence with officials of the Henry L. Doherty company. Ben E. Ling, assistant to the president of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating company and letters from Davey Bradley formerly was employed by the Davey Tree Expert company.

Deny Agreement.

Bradley told the committee he and Davey had conferred with L. L. Tremper, regional manager of General Motors Truck corporation, in Chicago, and Frederick C. Horner, former assistant to the president. Both said by telephone they knew Bradley but denied they agreed to contribute to the Davey campaign.

W. H. Barnett, regional sales manager of Chrysler Motors Fargo division, also acknowledged an acquaintance with Bradley but de-

COLUMBUS—Gov. Martin L. Davey, describing testimony of an asphalt salesman before the senate graft investigating committee as "false," asserted today "we shall proceed against him for perjury."

The governor termed a "deliberate slander" the statement of Lee Bradley at Cleveland that General Motors corporation contributed $25,000 to Davey's successful 1934 campaign on the promise of one-half of the state's automobile business.

Davey said in a formal statement that he would bring a perjury suit at the earliest opportunity.

Denies 'Collections.'

Concerning Bradley's contention that he "arranged" campaign fund contributions, State Democratic Chairman Francis W. Poulson said:

"Bradley never at any time collected or undertook to collect a single dollar for any Davey campaign, for Democratic headquarters or for any purpose that I know about."

L. L. Tremper, midwestern regional manager for General Motors Truck and Coach corporation, who was named in Bradley's testimony, said that "to my knowledge" neither his company nor the parent corporation made any contributions.

Bradley, testifying before the committee at Cleveland yesterday, asserted also that he "contacted 27 public utility companies in 22 states" while "making arrangements for campaign contributions" and that he made written reports to Davey "two or three times a week."

The governor said Bradley's statement "that he arranged for $175,000 campaign contributions from utilities is an unscrupulous lie. The fact is that the utilities were not asked for contributions and they made none."

Bradley, self-identified campaign worker, said the arrangement with General Motors was reached in a New York hotel and

Davey Petitions Here, But Where? That's Question

There were plenty of reports today that "Davey for governor" petitions were being circulated in Mansfield, but petition bearers were either in hiding or reluctant to admit they had joined in the "draft Davey" movement.

E. B. Kallmerten, chairman of the county Democratic executive committee, said he had heard there were petitions in the city but had not seen any of them. Kallmerten, who has been named a member of the committee seeking to draft the governor for a third term, added that he expects to receive petitions and will "take care of them" when they arrive.

A report said that one of the petitions, carried by a representative of the states sales tax organization, was filled with signatures yesterday in the Fifth ward. Attaches of the sales tax office here denied, however, that they had any of the papers.

Denials also came from the county office of the division of aid for the aged and the state highway department office.

"I read in the paper that we were going to get some of the petitions, but I haven't seen any yet," M. W. Conley, division manager of the aid for aged, said today.

Coast Guard Rushes Aid to Vessel Crippled by Storm.

BOSTON —(AP)— Helpless with 51 persons aboard, a vessel identified only at the S. S. Azalea wallowed in the pounding north Atlantic today with her propeller gone, while the coast guard cutter Tahoe steamed 300 miles to her aid.

The stricken vessel was caught in a roaring northwest gale 135 miles southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland.

Tide of Nazi Protest Rises In Austria

COUNTRY TOLD TO 'LISTEN,' NOT TO 'TALK'

Monarchists Seek to Swing Socialist Aid to Fight Inroads of Hitlerism.

BUSINESS MEN PROTEST

Appeals For Voice In Affairs of Nation Meet With Curt Denial by Schuschnigg.

(By Associated Press)

VIENNA—A rising tide of opposition swirled through Hitlerized Austria today.

Monarchists, their hopes of empire glimmering, sought to swing socialists behind them to combat Nazi inroads into the nation.

Their leaders met to formulate a working monarchist-socialist agreement.

Members of the fatherland front, Austria's only legal political party, cried out during a conference against statements by Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, who tartly replied they were there to listen, not to express opinions.

Get Vague Promise.

Socialists and Catholics pleaded with Schuschnigg for a voice in the conduct of affairs, and were told that perhaps political societies would be formed to permit them and other groups to express opinions under police supervision.

There were reports here that Hitler was demanding further that Jewish influence in the Austrian press, federal banking system and state industries be reduced to a minimum.

The prospect of accelerated industry under German direction emerged as the likely, practical demonstration of national socialism's entry into Austria.

It met at once a thinly-veiled opposition from some businessmen, who feared there would result an unfavorable trade condition and currency depreciation.

Austrian Catholics announced, too, they were rallying forces for an anti-Nazi campaign.

Parties File Protests.

Prominent leaders of the former powerful Catholic and Socialist parties protested to Chancellor Schuschnigg, urging a revival of parliamentary, democratic party government.

Newspapers reported Germany's field marshal General Hermann Wilhelm Goering would come to Vienna next month to meet Austrian government and industrial leaders.

This gave rise to reports plans then would be drawn to press Austrian industry into the machinery of Germany's four-year plan—a plan for assuring to Germany raw materials from her own sources, without the necessity of depending on foreign supplies.

Thus such a co-ordination of industry would carry into the

TAX PAYMENTS PUT ON RALLY

Nearly Up To 1937 Pace; Kolb Calls Picture Brighter.

Improved collections of real estate taxes have boosted total payments to $169,221 since the books opened Feb. 1, Treasurer John E. Kolb said today.

Receipts for the first half of the year are still $17,600 below collections for the same period last year when $186,859 was collected.

With more than a month remaining in which to pay the real estate and special assessment levies without penalty, Kolb said the picture looks brighter than it did two weeks ago.

The tax charge for the half is nearly $600,000, in current and delinquent levies. Books will be open until March 21.

AIDS 50,000

Ohio WPA Prepares For Share In New Relief Allotment.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Ohio's WPA employment lists, outgrowth of the depression, nurtured by the dark days of 1934 and 1935 and partially buried with the business uptrend in 1936 and 1937, today faced reincarnation because of the recession.

WPA officials said today that they were not sure just how much Ohio would receive of the $250,000,000 deficiency appropriation, if it is passed by the senate, but they were certain enough money would be forthcoming to add at least 50,000 persons to the employment rolls.

With the upturn in WPA employment and in increase in funds, the officials predicted a fairly heavy uptrend in the num-

BATTLES STORM

Arctic Rescue Ship Halted In Effort to Reach Scientists.

MOSCOW — (AP) — An Arctic snowstorm today stalled the icebreaker Taimyr in her attempt to push through thick pack ice to the camp of Soviet Russia's four drifting polar scientists.

The Taimyr sent word that the storm, off the Greenland coast, was so heavy her crew was unable to see ahead of the vessel. As soon as the storm subsides, fliers planned to drop fresh meat, cigarets, matches and pencils to the explorers.

PROBE GARAGE BLAST

WOOSTER —(AP)—Dynamiting of an automobile service garage at nearby Rittman was investigated today by Sheriff E. E. Mills. Paul Ech, owner of the building, said he knew of no reason for the vandalism.

Was His Story Perjury?

—Central Press Photo.

Lee Bradley, above, created a sensation yesterday in Cleveland when he related a story of alleged "pay-offs" he handled for Governor Martin L. Davey, and today was confronted with the intention of the governor to bring perjury charges against him. Davey branded his testimony before the committee as a "slanderous falsehood," an "unscrupulous lie," and an "unqualified falsehood." Bradley had testified that he knew of arrangements between the governor and automobile companies for contributions to the Davey campaign in exchange for a promise of state automobile business.

It's Doggone Funny Thing About Our Richland Dogs!

Tax Figures (They Can Lie) Show Only 1,300 of 5,000 Listed Are Females—Only 233 Potential Mothers.

There is indignation in the ranks of Richland county's dog population and a puzzled frown on the brow of Dog Warden William Miller. And all because of an insinuation of birth control among the debutantes and matrons of dogdom.

"There's something doggone funny about these figures," Miller says, scanning the dog tax figures.

"Don't believe a word of it, it's gossip and propaganda against us," says the indignant canine mothers and mothers-to-be.

Let's Look at Figures!

But Miller's right. There IS something funny about those figures, as found in the office of County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe. For of 5,080 dogs registered thus far, only 223 can ever know the joys and troubles of motherhood —if you believe the license figures.

The entire female dog population—according to their owners—is only 1,300, and all of these have been sterilized or spayed except the 223—again according to their owners.

"It's not true," comes a chorus of yelps from the mama pooches, "they're just saying that!"

That's what the dog warden thinks—"they're just saying that." Because a dog license costs $3 for a female capable of propagating her kind, while a license for a male or a spayed female costs only $1. Owners, craftily

JAIL'S AHEAD

Train Speeds Townsend to 30-Day Term In Capital.

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Dr. Francis E. Townsend, 71, gray haired, bespectacled old age pension leader, was on his way by train today to Washington, D. C. to serve a jail term for contempt.

The Long Beach physician, who walked out on the Bell congressional committee which was questioning him on how his $200-a-month pension campaign was financed, left last night amid cheers of several hundred followers.

Behind jail bars, Dr. Townsend plans to finish writing a book about his life and his philosophy.

The pension champion was sentenced in March, 1937, to serve 30 days in jail and pay a fine of $100.

Split In Council Looms Over Sewage Measure

Hunter Due to Face First Fight With Solons at Session Tonight.

HIT 'RAILROADING'

Several Oppose Present Plant Set-up; Mayor Calls Caucus.

It seemed certain today that Mayor Claude M. Hunter would face his first fight with city council as the city's chief executive tonight when council meets in special session to consider three pieces of legislation dealing with the operation of the $300,000 sewage disposal plant.

Two of the four Republican members and at least one Democratic councilman have indicated that they will oppose any 'railroading" of the measures. Several have voiced their opposition to continuing the operation of the plant under the present set-up and it is expected that several changes will be sought in at least one of the ordinances.

Mayor to Present Plan.

Apparently seeking to avoid an open battle on the floor of council over the measures, Hunter has asked for a caucus of all members at 7:30 p. m. at which time he will express his views on the operation of the plant.

The mayor said he would present the three measures to council at the caucus.

An ordinance creating positions for employes at the plant and fixing their salaries will be presented for renewal with some changes.

Limited to City Resident.

This is the measure that is expected to cause some discussion because of the clause that calls for the employment of a Mansfield resident only to the position of superintendent of the plant.

Opposition to this particular part of the ordinance is expected to be led by Fifth Ward Councilman Fred Miller who said he will "buck" the measure on the grounds that a Class "A" sewage plant operator, such as the state health board has recommended be hired, cannot be found in Mansfield.

"I am for striking out that particular clause from the ordinance," Miller said, "and pave the way for hiring a qualified sewage plant operator by placing the job on a competitive basis."

The present sewage ordinance expires March 8. One of the mea-

5 MORE CASES

Smallpox Total Climbs to 76; 2 More Quarantines Lifted.

Five new cases of small pox were reported today by Health Commissioner Roy C. Rehder while two families were released from quarantine. The new cases increase the total reported in the county for the past two weeks to 76.

One of the new cases is an adult while the other four are school children. Two are in the city, Eleanor Wharton, 10, of 199 Grace street, a student at Newman school is the second to be taken ill in that family. Her mother has been confined with the disease since Monday.

The others are Mrs Samuel Shambaugh, 36 Clairmont avenue, Marjorie Ellis, 11, of 404 Fifth avenue, a student at East Mansfield school; William Ward, 6, of 14 Harmon avenue, a student at Bowman school, and Corrine Moats, 13, of 7 Superior street, a Hedges pupil.

The two families released from quarantine yesterday by the health department reported were those of Fred Moritz, 316 First avenue and Hallman Longsdorf, 123 South Diamond street.

PARK PROGRAM GIVEN IMPETUS

Town Hall Agrees That Plan to Expand, Beautify City System Imperative.

The movement to expand and beautify Mansfield's park system took definite steps forward last night as 60 persons attending the second Town Hall meeting of the year agreed that a program of long range development was imperative, and pledged their assistance in bringing the plan to realization.

Following an outline of the development by G. V. Sowers, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce park beautification committee, city officials, Garden club members, union representatives and individuals voiced their approval of the undertaking.

As tentatively set up, the immediate beautification program will require a WPA appropriation of $25,000, with the city contributing materials, to improve, South, Middle and North Parks. At longer range, it is planned to acquire additional land to expand the park system.

After outlining what the Chamber committee hoped to see accomplished in present parks, Sowers said, "the ultimate plan also calls for acquiring additional property for the extension of the park system."

He said it was hoped that the city, could at some future day,

STATE OFFICIAL NAMED IN SUIT

Ontario Man Charges Eppley's Car Injured Daughter, 11.

George E. Eppley, Cleveland, member of the state liquor control board, was named defendant in a $1,000 damage suit filed yesterday in common pleas court by John B. Negley, of near Ontario, in behalf of his 11-year-old daughter.

Negley seeks damages for injuries suffered by the girl last October when the car in which she was riding allegedly was struck by one driven by Eppley in Lexington.

The child, Becky Sue Negley, suffered a brain concussion and permanent disfigurement, the petition states. Eppley is accused of negligence and driving at an excessive rate of speed.

The court placed him on probation for one year.

TWISTER HITS AT NIGHT, 60 OTHERS HURT

Oil Community In Louisiana Counts $400,000 Damage From Terrific Wind.

DERRICKS TOPPLE OVER

2-Minute Storm Cuts Swath Through City; Rush Injured to Other Communities.

(By Associated Press)

RODESSA, La.—A crackling, roaring tornado that dipped into the industrial section of this north Louisiana oil boom town last night brought death to at least 21 persons, injured three score and caused damage variously estimated between $250,000 and $400,000.

An accurate check of the dead and injured had to await the restoration of order here and reports from Shreveport, Vivian, La., and Atlanta, Tex., where many of the victims were taken.

Bodies Sent to Atlanta.

Ten bodies were counted in morgues at Atlanta. Six others lay in Shreveport and at least two were in an improvised morgue in a grocery store here.

Drs. George E. Morrison and Charles Holt, who directed treatment of the injured here, agreed the death list might run between 20 and 25 and the injured above 60. Together they treated more than a score in their offices, eight of whom died.

Drs. Morrison and Holt said many of the injured were in a critical condition.

The storm struck at 9:42 p. m. The hands of a big electric clock in the path of the twister stopped at that time. It blew in from the north and roared like a freight train, witnesses said.

For two minutes it swirled along Supply street, leveling practically every structure in a block and half square area.

Communication and power lines snapped, crackled and dangled dangerously throughout the area. Oil derricks toppled.

Hear Cries of Injured.

Volunteers rushed to the stricken area. They dug into the wreckage blindly, guided in some instances by the cries of those trapped under the demolished houses.

Trucks from the oil fields were rushed in and quickly converted into ambulances.

Gov. Richard W. Leche acted quickly at Baton Rouge to dispatch state aid.

The tornado apparently singled out this oil boom town for its earthward descent as no other storms were reported within a wide area.

SENDS OUT SOS

French Steamer Reports Raid By Spanish Warships.

MARSEILLES —(INS)—Shelled by warships in the Mediterranean, the French steamer El Mansour flashed out a distress call for immediate assistance today.

The vessel was carrying passengers, cargo and mail from Algeria to France.

Her first S. O. S. said one shell fell within 175 yards of the ship. The master advised he believed the attackers were Spanish warships.

The El Mansour gave her position as a few miles south of Cape Creus, which lies 10 miles from the Franco-Spanish frontier on the Mediterranean coast.

Her S. O. S. mentioned a "squadron" of attackers.

Too Many Taxes---So He Quits Business

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Maxwell M. Nowak, Chicago business man, announced today that he was liquidating his $1,500,000-a-year business because of high taxes. In the following article, Mr. Nowak, who spent 35 years of his life building up his business, explains for International News Service his reasons for quitting.)

* * * * *

By MAXWELL M. NOWAK

CHICAGO—(INS)—I am quitting business because I am sick and tired of taxes.

I have spent 35 years building up my 64 warehouses in 28 states into a $1,500,000-a-year business under the firm name of The Nowak Milling Corporation of Hammond. We deal in livestock feed.

But now I prefer to retire from business. The outstanding reason is taxation. They have piled too many taxes on me, about 50 different varieties, and with all the trouble of reporting them, there wasn't any use of continuing any more.

Taxes took the major portion of profits from my business. Why should I keep on working for the benefit of a tax collector.

As an example, we had to pay $7,000 in salaries and fees during 1937 to clerks, auditors and attorneys to keep all our tax reports straight.

The kind of taxes to which I particularly object are the kind a business man must pay before he makes a cent of profit. As I said, my company did business in twenty eight states and the taxes-before-profit idea was ruinous.

For instance, we pay state unemployment, state social security, state personal property, state franchise, state store, city and county, federal, capital and about two score other kind of taxes.

And now, the state of Indiana, where my main plants are located, has passed a law taking from the concern one-fourth of one per cent on all goods sold in the state or outside. I don't object to paying taxes on goods sold in interstate or foreign business.

As soon as I can, I am going to clean up all business matters and then take a long trip, probably to some land where politicians do not know so much about taxes. I have sold most of my business to a Chicago firm, and am also selling my interest in Buffalo. I am retaining only a small business for my son to operate. A lot of other business men may be forced to follow in my footsteps unless something is done about taxes.

I have about 75 employes working directly for the firm. I am trying to see that they are placed with firms to whom I am selling my business. But it is taxation that is driving them to seek new jobs. That shows the vicious cycle of high taxation, not only as it affects business, but a it affects the man who holds a job. It should give politicians a lot of cause for thought.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

PROFESSIONAL CLUB WILL GIVE MUSICALE

Business Women's Organization to Present Carl Schodorf, Columbus Baritone; Glee Club at Annual Tea Sunday Afternoon.

AN UNUSUALLY interesting program has been arranged for the concert and tea which the Business and Professional Women's club will give Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Mansfield-Leland ballroom, with its Glee club being presented in several groups of songs, and with Carl Schodorf, baritone, of Columbus, as guest artist.

Most of the numbers selected are great favorites with music followers, distinguished for their melody and charm. The Glee club, under the direction of Miss Myrtle Booth, will be heard in three groups, the first of which will be made up of Oley Speaks' "To You"; the "Indian Cradle Song" by Matthews, and "In My Garden," by Firestone-Riegger.

Two numbers in the second group, which always please audiences will be "Allah's Holiday" and "Giannina Mia," the thrilling love song which was recently revived when "The Firefly," from which it is taken, was filmed. The third number in this group will be "Once on a Summer Day."

Their last group includes "The Little Old Garden," by Hewitt; Dichmont's "Ma Little Banjo," and the waltz song "Carmena."

Mr. Schodorf, whose musical background includes opera, radio and church solo work, has also chosen songs that are great favorites, one of the most popular of which is D'Hardelot's "Because." In his first group there will be "Invictus" by Huhn and Douty's "Song of Joy."

His second group is marked by numbers that have been highly popularized by Nelson Eddy, such as "Give a Man a Horse," "The Kerry Dance," Tosti's "Goodbye" and selections from the romantic "Desert Song" by Sigmund Romberg.

Mrs. Minnie Marks Cahall, who has been accompanist for the Glee club since it organization about 12 years ago, will preside at the piano, while Miss Dorothy D. Boyles of Columbus will accompany Schodorf.

The roster of the Glee club this year has the names of a number of well-known Mansfield singers, all of whom are members of the Business and Professional Women's club. The Glee club is made up of the Misses Estella K. Arras, Lucile Beattie, Catherine Black, Jane Foltz, Marie Kalbfleisch, Mrs. Emery (Eleanor Stone) Smith, and Miss Marie Weil, all sopranos.

Second sopranos: the Misses Esther Dunham, Aletha Lorentz, Nina Pollock, Thelma Reed and Mrs. H. K. (Margaret) Sellick. Altos: Lillian Frank Davis, Mrs. Mary Gruber, Mrs. Claude (Ruth) Ewing and the Misses Mabel Koppes, Dorothy Landers, Minnie Laudon and Clara Miller.

Tea will be served after the concert.

MARYALICE KYLE TO BECOME BRIDE FEB. 27

Announcement of Engagement to A. J. Stutz Made By Parents at Bridge Party Thursday Evening at Penn Avenue Home.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE C. KYLE, 57 Penn avenue, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Maryalice, to A. J. Stutz, Gardner apartments. The announcement was made last night at a bridge party given at the Kyle home.

Bridge was played at three tables with prizes going to Miss Margaret DeWitt and Miss Catherine Piper. Decorations of red and white were used and individual corsages were given each guest. At a table centered with red roses, gardenias and narcissus luncheon was served. Announcement was made by streamers leading from the centerpiece to each place. Cards giving the names and date were attached.

The ceremony will be read Feb. 27 at the First Congregational church. Miss Kyle, who is a graduate of Mansfield high school, is employed at the Sun Glow Industries Incorporated. Mr. Stutz, who is a native of Elyria, is manager of Carek's. He is a graduate of Elyria high school.

Social Group Discusses Plans For Spring Dance

Discussion of plans for the dance which is scheduled for April 23 occupied the business meeting of the members of Beta Sigma Phi last night at the home of Miss Beatrice Kochenderfer. The affair will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

It was also decided to send Miss Kochenderfer and Miss Betty Hout to Cincinnati May 30 to attend the Founder's Day dinner. Benton H. Goodenough was the guest speaker. His topic was public speaking. At the close of the program refreshments were served with Miss Ruth Workman pouring. The next meeting will be March 3 at Miss Workman's home.

BROADWAY "BOOKS" LIKE ADAMICK A LITTLE TOO WELL, WALSH BELIEVES.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(INS Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—"Doc" Kearns, the glib and fluent old pitch-man of the medicine tents and midways, is moving in again among the folks of the "big top" tonight with his latest Lochinvar from out of west, guaranteed to cure insomnia and curb all ills of the flesh. You just don't have any flesh when it's all over.

The first time the old Doc did that, he brought a rowdy person by the name of Dempsey, who stretched Fred Fulton like a portiere over in Harrison, N. J., in 18 seconds, flat, meaning exactly that. This time, 20 years later, it's Jimmy Adamick, the Austrian-Slav from Detroit, who has put the "knock" on 41 of his 48 opponents to date and hopes to do the same with Harry Thomas, of Chicago, tonight.

It will be Thomas' second appearance at Madison Square Garden, his first being that violent evening last December when he finished down there right opposite Max Schmeling's shoe laces. The scheduled distance tonight is ten rounds but, unless the prattle we've been hearing around here is all to the falsetto, nobody's looking for this one to last. Both of these parties can hit and each is like the Washington arch—but wide.

They say Thomas, if he wins, will get that next bull pen warm up with Champion Louis, scheduled for April. What Adamick is to get in the event of victory nobody has yet said but, if he's that good, he'll probably get the old Maypole dance from Bryn Mawr. The scientific term is the run-around.

ALL told, Adamick isn't in the best possible spot for his New York opening, especially after taking the match on ten days' notice. The Broadway "books" like him—a little too well, if anything. They're quoting 2-1, which seems far out of line for a young man who has been coming up against Class B pitching and might worry himself into an off night, anyhow.

Besides, there's something about 2-1 that seems to irk the gods and incite them into reprisal. There is, in fact, a pretty sound rule on that, namely, any time a price is that long, take it—or it's likely to take you.

Outside of that, though, the auspices seem most favorable for James. He's a crowding puncher to have a full repertoire, barring of the Dempsey school and seems a straight left. He paws a little with that punch, but hooks it beautifully. As for his right, he can cross it, shoot it straight and uppercut it.

Briefly, if the young man can shake off a punch well enough, all he'll have to do tonight is to take his gymnasium behavior into the ring with him. This will win against almost anybody.

GALION PLANS TOURNEY

Stages Mittfest Next Month As Benefit For Hospital.

Announcement was made today of an amateur boxing tournament to be held in the junior high school gym in Galion, March 4 and 11. The tournament is being staged for the benefit of the Good Samaritan hospital.

H. J. Shafer, who is director of the elimination, stated that a number of Mansfield boys will appear in the tournament.

PRO STAR QUITS GAME

NEW YORK—(INS)—Professional football's loss was Columbia univerity's gain today as Cliff Battles, star of the Washington Redskins, quit the pro game to become backfield coach under Lou Little.

DOMINATES TOURNAMENT

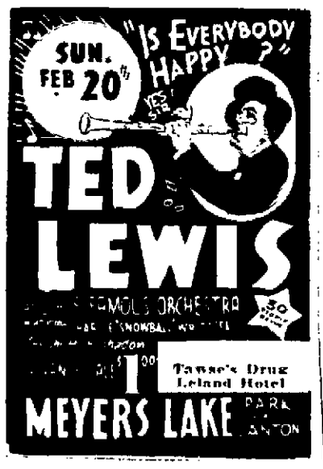
BUCYRUS — Bucyrus bowlers won the majority of prizes in the sweepstakes held here over the week-end. Art Lust won the singles with a 638, and Harnop and Kehrer won the doubles with a 1276.

BASKETBALL RESULTS

Ohio Wesleyan 55, Ohio U. 32
Wooster 41, Kent State 37
Marietta 36, West Virginia U. 29
Ursinus 38, Wilmington 29
Kentucky 45, Xavier 29
Rio Grande 29, Cedarville 23

CARR, TURNER DRAW

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—Curt Carr, 156, Meriden, Conn., and Jack Turner, 216, Tulsa, Okla., drew, 10.



STILL TOUGH

Though he admits he's "around 40 years old," Manager Bill Cook of the Cleveland Barons still is able to step into the game occasionally and rattle the enemy's teeth. Bill, former Ranger star, took the ice in a Baron uniform the other night and helped his team beat New Haven, 5 to 4, besides delivering a body check that resulted in Frank Beisler being carried to the dressing room.

Frascella Is Held, But Wooster Wins

CRESTLINE FIGHTERS ON CARD.

Several outstanding out-of-town pugilistic stars have joined the fast-growing list of fighters who will battle on the amateur boxing card to be staged at the Friendly House Monday, Feb. 28.

Among those who will invade Mansfield to participate on the first boxing card of the year are Joe Gauni, welterweight; Phil Fleiner, lightweight; and Frank Dolce, flyweight, all of Crestline, and Al Kelley, a lightweight of Willard.

It was announced today by Mike Wentz, matchmaker, that the McKinley brothers of Ashland would probably be added to the card.

Outstanding among the Mansfield boys who will take part in the show is Beauford Glover, flashy welterweight, who has yet to taste defeat. Glover has won several Friendly House championships against some stiff opposition, and Wentz said today that the hard-punching youth would be matched with a worthy opponent in one of the feature bouts.

Scores But 10 Points as Scots Rally to Trim Kent State, 43-37.

(By Associated Press)

WOOSTER college again was tied today with the powerful Wittenberg quintet for first place in the lively Ohio conference basketball race. Both teams have scored eight victories and neither has suffered a loop defeat.

The Scots met surprise opposition last night in a nip-and-tuck encounter with Kent State university's cagers, but managed through a last period rally to come out on the happy side of a 43 to 37 count.

Humblest Showing.

Guard Ernie Sullivan of Kent held Nick Frascella, pace setter among all Ohio collegians, to 10 points—the sharpshooter's humblest showing in any game to date this season. Wooster held a meager 20-19 edge at the half.

In the Buckeye conference, Ohio Wesleyan's Bishops scored a 35-33 victory over the second place Ohio University aggregation, last season's co-champions. It was Wesleyan's third win in nine loop starts and Ohio's fourth defeat in eight conference tilts.

The Bishops overtook the Bobcats during the initial period to gain a 13-11 lead at the half.

Marietta college trounced West Virginia at Morgantown for the second time this season, 30 to 29, in a game which was anybody's until the curtain. Marietta led at half-time, 14-12.

The University of Kentucky defeated Xavier of Cincinnati at Lexington, 45 to 29. In an earlier engagement the Cincinnatians took Kentucky's measure, Kentucky led at the half, 21-7.

Dayton Wins, 38-33.

The University of Dayton took a 38-33 game from Wilmington college. At the half the score stood 18 to 17 in Dayton's favor. Rio Grande crushed Cedarville college, 29 to 23, in a hard fought tilt.

BOWLING SCORES

Tire Bowlers, Led by Ganyard, Set Individual Pace In Meder Alleys Matches.

BOWLERS in the Mansfield Tire league held the spotlight at the Meder alleys last night.

Led by Ten Ganyard, with Schmidt and Thieding following, the Tire keglers accounted for the outstanding individual scores.

Ganyard set the pace with a 654 count, which included tilts of 201, 222 and 231. Thieding, Ganyard's teammate on the Tire Room team, came through with a 246 and 620.

Schmidt of the Air Bags accounted for a 636. He finished his string with a fat 259 game.

The best team total was a 2820 shot by the Q Billiards of the Commercial B league, who were led by Heiser's 613. The Unriot Insurance smacked out a 2774, Willis Billiards, 2750, and Mansfield Printers, 2723. Young of HalBark's Clothiers accounted for the only other 600 rolled in the league.

Sophia Meder rolled a 540 to lead the Women's league pinsters. She led the Heilman Grocers to a high 2336.

The Rex Billiards defeated the Mansfield Athletic Supply club, 39 to 32, last night at the Friendly House to cling to their slim lead in the Senior white league.

Benny's Hi Notes remained only a game behind the pace setters by drubbing the Zeigler Independents, 31 to 19, while in the other game on the program, the Dinger Independents, led by Dinger who scored 16 points, walloped the Blue Goose outfit, 40 to 28.

Mike Wentz was the offensive star for the Cuemen with 12 points. The Billards ran into some stiff opposition in the first half against the Supplies, but outscored the losers in the third period to take a commanding lead. The Billiards led, 18 to 16, at halftime.

RANDOM SHOTS

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

ACCORDING to Prof. Litkenhous' syndicated basketball ratings, Lucas high school is the strongest team entered in the county tournament opening at the Tyger lair Saturday.

While Lucas has one of the finest teams in the county this winter, the records fail to bear out the Louisville, Ky., professor's ratings.

Coach Gil Weikart's Cubs finished well down in the county league race, but Litkenhous gives them a better rating than any of their rivals.

Ontario, which won the league title, does not ever appear in the rankings. Neither does Union. Bellville, which won only one game, is listed at 43.3, and Adario, winner of two games, is rated at 2.0.

Bellville's percentage is even better than Madison's, the team which is in third place in the county league.

It's all kind of screwy, if you ask us. But for your information, we're listing his ratings: Lucas, 64.9; Butler, 61.5; Lexington, 57.0; Bellville, 43.3; Madison, 36.8; Shiloh, 31.1; Plymouth, 14.2; Adario, 2.0, with Ontario and Union not listed.

UNLESS Frank Crosetti shows some improvement with the stick, Bill Knickerbocker will be holding down the shortstop berth for the Yankees next season. What a lucky break for "Knick" . . . going to the Yankees. The Browns asked waivers on him a month ago.

OHIO HOPE

DAVE ALBRITTON

Albritton Only Buck Who Can Be Counted on to Score Consistently.

By RUSSELL FULLER

COLUMBUS—(INS) — There was no Jesse Owens streaking up the cinder path in the dashes or hurtling through the air over the broadjump pit nor a dependable Charlie Beetham to come springing home to victory in the mile so consequently Ohio State's 1938 track and field prospects appeared exceedingly gloomy today.

Back a couple of years when Owens was the collegiate speedster of the age, there was as much interest over track at Ohio State as over weather prospects for a double holiday. This year about as many persons are personally acquainted with Scarlet and Gray track prospects as are familiar with the more intricate points of the fourth dimension.

Out-Star Gridders.

Both Owens and Beetham achieved a peculiar sort of fame at Ohio State. As track athletes, they were as well known as footballers "Bouncing" Joe Williams, pudgy Gomer Jones or stalwart Wes Fesler. In fact the honors of the track pair spread to far more remote climes than those of the gridiron heroes.

The only man on the Buck track team this year who has any national reputation is High Jumper Dave Albritton. The dusky jumper clears the cross bar at considerable height as nimbly and gracefully as a buck deer in full flight leaping across a brick wall.

Albritton seems to be the only member of Larry Snyder's squad who can be counted on to score consistently. Forrest Fordham, last year's sophomore gridiron fullback sensation, is quite potent with the shotput. But he has met no real competition yet. Some of the Big Ten iron ball pushers handle the weight as easily as if it were a piece of wood.

Take Fordham, Albritton and the mile relay team and presto, you have Ohio State's 1938 track aggregation. That is, unless some of the other candidates uncurl the kinks in their arms and legs.

Squire has possibilities in the 440 and 880 yard runs as has Albritton in the high and low hurdles. Perhaps, with proper grooming, Albritton might develop into a 10 or 15 point man. If that was the case then the current outlook would be refinished.

It is early in the season. Most of the meets now are being held indoors. Under the careful coaching of Larry Snyder, the Scarlet and Gray might evolve into a powerful and victorious track aggregation. That is conceding a lot, though.

HOST TO BIG 10 MEET

Because of lack of fan approbation, only one home-and-home meet has been scheduled for Ohio Stadium. That is with Michigan on May 14. Of course the Big Ten meet will be here on May 20 and 21.

Maybe some year another Jesse Owens or Charlie Beetham will appear to lighten Coach Snyder's chores. Probably not though. In the meantime Snyder croons, "Thanks for the Memories."

Tygers Ring Down Curtain Against Indiana Hoopsters

Entertain LaGrange Quintet In Final Scheduled Game Tonight.

MANSFIELD high school cagers ring down the curtain on the 1937-38 schedule on the home boards tonight when they entertain the touted LaGrange, Ind., hoopsters.

Tonight's finale sends the Tygers against one of the strongest foes on their schedule, and the pre-game dope is not favorable to the Mansfield team's chances.

A Capable Team.

Indiana takes great pride in its basketball, and, according to reports, the LaGrange club is capable of upholding the prestige of the state in foreign fields.

Little is known of the club except that it has won 11 games, and that it is one of the better combinations in Indiana this winter.

The LaGrange team is making a tour through Kentucky and Ohio in preparation for the state tournament in which it is expected to be a factor.

While there may be some argument as to whether the kind of basketball played in Indiana is superior to Ohio's, the Hoosier teams claim a superiority.

One game between Ohio and Indiana teams cannot settle the issue, but the result of Friday's game will be interesting, nonetheless.

Mansfield has met only one other Indiana team in Boston, and while it was not one of the best to represent the Hoosier state that year, it provided the Tygers with a hard game.

The Tygers' victory hopes tonight depend on whether they can continue at the pace they set in the triumph over Columbus East last week.

Mansfield gave one of its best exhibitions of the season against the Columbus quintet, and might win over LaGrange if it performs as well.

Seek 10th Victory.

Ccach Russ Murphy's men will be seeking their 10th victory in 16 games tonight.

Murphy again plans to use a lineup consisting of Scott and Dugger, forwards; Dials, center, and Hallabrin and Lyons, guards. Hallabrin and Dials are the only seniors on the squad.

Two preliminary games will precede the Mansfield-LaGrange tussle.

Mesopotamia Falls From Unbeaten Ranks.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Eddie Mead, manager of Carmen Barth, who meets middleweight champion Freddy Steele here Saturday in a 15-round title bout, said today his Cleveland protege "is the most under-rated fighter in the middleweight division."

"He's had a lot of hard luck with illness," Mead said, "but he's okay now. He licked Eric Seelig in his last fight, didn't he?

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—At a late hour today, no one had been found willing to hazard a guess on the purpose, not to mention the outcome, of tonight's 10-round duel between Jimmy Adamick, the kid from Detroit, and bouncing Harry Thomas.

The whole affair had everybody so puzzled that many intended to go and see for themselves, the expectation being that around $25,000 worth would turn up at Madison Square Garden. The fact that old Doc Kearns, the bogey man of boxing, was going to be in Adamick's corner undoubtedly added to the popular interest.

Adamick, through no particular fault of his own, finds himself in a tough spot for a youngster. Kearns, the most articulate of all fight managers, said that Adamick was "better than Dempsey."

Anyway, Adamick in his gymnasium workouts looks only like a willing but unskilled young fighter, with a good punch when it lands. The original odds were 3 to 1 that the Michigan Terror would slam Thomas about worse than Max Schmeling did some months ago.

But as the amazement grew at Adamick's ineptitude, the boys began putting padlocks on their money pockets. The odds were supposed to be 8-5 on Adamick today, but there wasn't any business.

The winner has been "signed" to give Joe Louis a tune-up in April.

RENEW OLD DUCKPIN RIVALRY

Two of the strongest duckpin teams in the city 25 years ago staged comebacks at the Meder alleys last night to renew one of the most ancient bowling rivalries in Mansfield history.

Shelby's Chocolates of 1913, with a lineup unchanged from 25 years ago, met Sword's Engineers, and the former tea won, 1763 to 1578. The old Chocolates gained their winning advantage in the middle game with a 673 score.

Dusty Rhoades was the high man for the Chocolates with a 377, which included a 193 game. George Balliet followed with a 371. Weil's 328 was high for the losers.

Arnica and other pain-reducing remedies were used in quantities today. According to Capt. Balliet of the Chocolates, the boys are not as spry as they once were, and his report today showed lame arms and legs as well as painful backs.

CLAYBOURN TO RETURN

Popular Colored Star to Meet Russia's Ivan Barronoff In Monday's Show.

'Gentleman Jack" Claybourn, one of the most popular wrestlers to appear in the Mansfield ring this season, will top the Quality club Monday night's show at the Armory.

Matchmaker Tim Nolan announced today that he has signed the popular Claybourn to meet Ivan Barronoff, a recent importation from Russia, in the headline match.

Claybourn, a colored grappler, made his first appearance in the city several weeks ago, and he immediately became a hit. The colored star will meet an outstanding performer in Barronoff, Nolan said.

Monday will also be "Ladies Night," Nolan announced, and feminine fans accompanied by escorts will be admitted free.

Balanced Prices, Roosevelt's Aim to Spur Recovery

BARES PLAN TO 'CURE' ILLS OF U.S. BUSINESS

Policy Drawn to Hike Income, Expand Production, Create Jobs, President Says.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt said today the administration seeks a balanced system of prices which will expand production, increase national income and revive employment.

The president outlined his position on prices in a statement read at his press conference.

The administration's policy, he said, "is not a policy of restriction; it is a policy of abundance."

"Our agricultural, industrial, housing and monetary programs have been and will be directed toward this end, Mr. Roosevelt declared.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that achievement of the administration's goals would "provide and maintain a national income far above any levels we have yet reached"

Flexible Wage Scale.

Mr. Roosevelt did not touch on the question of wages in his formal price statement. Informally, however, he declared that emphasis is general placed on a flexible wage scale during a downward swing of the economic cycle. However, he pointed out, industry has a tendency to ignore the flexibility of wages as production moves up, delaying pay increases until the last possible moment.

Often, he said, industry delays wage increases until the very peak of a boom, even though the wage increase is small by comparison with an industry's profits. Because of this policy of delay in granting wage increases, he said, it is difficult to maintain these scales when profits fall off.

The president cited the automobile industry as an example of this wage policy.

The president declared the administration program does not mean inflation, but is a policy to help restore the balance in the price structure.

It does not mean, he said, devaluation of the dollar. However, he characterized the ending of gold sterilization Monday as a consideration in drafting the program for restoration of prices.

Prices Blamed.

He said that he and the government's experts agreed price dislocation is one of the major causes of the recession. He said disclocation or maladjustment followed speculative buying which developed during 1936 and the first four months of 1937 and before Mr. Roosevelt issued his warning last April that prices were going too high. He observed that perhaps he should have issued the warning before he did.

As to credit policy, the president said the administration expects to continue and to maintain easy credit conditions. The federal reserve board and the treasury are co-operating toward that end, he said.

The chief executive then asked himself the question whether the administration had taken the 1926 price level as an objective to be attained. His reply was yes and no.

He said the objective was not to restore price levels to those of a given year but to seek a balanced relationship between prices as a means of stimulating employment and the broad economic structure.

SEEK RELATIVES

Police Asked to Locate Kin Here of Dead Indianapolis Man.

At a request from the Indiana authorities, Mansfield police today were trying to locate relatives of David A. Brown who died in Indianapolis yesterday.

In a radio dispatch yesterday, Indiana state police asked local authorities to find relatives of the deceased man, believed to be residing here, and notify them that the funeral would be held Monday. They said he had no relatives in Indianapolis.

RENEW QUIZ OF UNION RACKET

Defense Attorneys Keep Head of Restaurant Chain on Stand at Cleveland.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND — Attempting to break down the story that he was the victim of a $1,200 extortion at the hands of John McGee and Don A. Campbell, union leaders, defense attorneys today continued vigorous cross-examination of Vernon Stouffer, head of a restaurant chain.

McGee, head of the Laborers' District Council, and Campbell, president of the Painters' District Council, are on trial on charges of blackmail and extortion.

In direct testimony, Stouffer testified that Campbell had demanded $2,000 from him, that the $1,200 figure later was agreed upon and that he paid the money to McGee after painters had been called from a remodelling job at a Stouffer restaurant here.

The painters returned to work shortly after the payment, Stouffer said, and glaziers started work on the window immediately thereafter.

Stouffer also testified that a window was broken the day after the restaurant opened, and a week later Campbell discussed with him the "disadvantages" of stench bombing. Another Stouffer restaurant was stench-bombed after that, and two months later the window was broken again, Stouffer said. Restaurants in the chain are located here and in Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and New York.

'Deliberate Slander' Governor Says of Statement General Motors Paid $25,000.

Tremper, commenting at Chicago, said:

"I remember Bradley. He applied for a position with us and I had to turn him down. I also met Governor Davey in New York about that time and Bradley was there but there was no campaign contribution that I know of and certainly none that I handled The statement is absolutely erroneous and absurd."

Former 'Salesman.'

Davey said that "the manner in which the state business has been divided among many manufacturers is ample proof" that Bradley's allegation "is an unqualified falsehood: The statement that he was to be the payoff man, and that I was to receive part of his commission is infamous criminal slander."

The governor described Bradley as a former salesman for the Davey Tree Expert company of Kent who was discharged and who later represented himself as a friend of the administration. He said Bradley first approached him in 1932 to interest himself in a campaign to nominate the late Newton D. Baker of Cleveland for president.

"I paid his expenses on several trips to see what could be done about lining up delegates," the governor said. "That was the only political work he ever did for me."

Bradley testified that he received "pretty near $9,000" from Poulson for his services at the rate of "about $400 monthly" between December, 1934, and December, 1936.

Poulson said the governor once paid Bradley "four or five hundred dollars," which the salesman claimed was due in Davey Tree company commissions and later, Poulson added, the chairman himself gave Bradley $400 "out of my own pocket" and loaned him money when he came with a story of family illness and financial distress.

Yesterday's committee hearing was recessed after two hours to permit Bradley to go to Pittsburgh to get from a vault certain documents which he said would substantiate his testimony.

The hearing was to resume at Columbus upon his arrival here.

Governor Davey said the documents merely were letters of introduction the former salesman obtained from clients of the Davey Tree company upon whom he called.

The governor announced he would make a state-wide radio address Feb 28 on the committee's activities.

"I'd like nothing better than to have Davey go on the radio with this, and then follow his broadcast a night or two later with one of my own," said Bradley after he left the witness stand.

P. T. A. MARKS FOUNDERS DAY

Council Joins in Bushnell Program Wednesday; Hedges Meeting Tonight.

Mansfield council of Parent-Teacher associations will observe Founders Day when it joins with the Bushnell P. T. A. for an annual program at Bushnell school next Wednesday, Feb. 23.

The city's various P. T. A groups have planned no special programs for the anniversary, although the majority will mark the event at their meetings.

Wednesday's meeting at Bushnell will open at 7:30 p. m. and will be in charge of Mrs. David Johns, president of the Bushnell group. Mrs. Frank Wendt is chairman of the Founders Day observance of the council.

This evening the Hedges P. T. A. marks Founders Day with an open meeting for P. T A. members and their friends at St. John's Evangelical church at which Dr. Ada Hart Arlitt, a national Parent-Teacher leader, will be the speaker.

Dr. Arlitt, who is a member of the faculty of the University of Cincinnati, will speak on "Parents, Children and Schools" at 8 p. m. A dinner for officers of P. T. A. groups will precede the meeting

The Parent-Teacher movement in the nation was launched by Mrs. Alice Birney of Washington, D. C. on Feb. 17, 1897 and was first known as the Congress of Mothers. The observance of Founders Day as an annual event was inaugurated in 1910 by Mrs. David P. Mears, a past president of the national association.

DEFENSIVE WAR PUZZLE TO NEW U. S. NAVY HEAD

'I Get All Muddled Up,' He Says, Adding He Knows Only One Kind.

By PAUL GALLICO
(INS Staff Correspondent)

LONG BEACH, Cal — Claude Charles Bloch, admiral, commander in chief of the United States navy does not admire a pug who stands in the middle of the ring, or backed up against the ropes with his arms folded about his head, waiting to be hit.

He says that that is not his idea of fighting.

It is the Dempsey type that catches his eye.

Now you know a little something more about your new head man of the United States armed forces at sea.

The admiral, thin faced, young looking with grayish hair and light, seaman's eyes, sat at his desk in his quarters aboard the New Mexico, his temporary flagship at anchor in the harbor here and confessed that he became confused when he heard talk about defensive and aggressive wars. We were discussing theoretically the defense of a U. S. coast line.

'No Other Kind of War.'

"I'm afraid I get all muddled up," he said, "when they talk about this aggressive and defensive warfare. There's only one kind of war I know, and that's war. Did you ever hear of any other kind?

"We wouldn't want anybody even close to our coastline. An enemy who might reach one of our coasts with his ships and aircraft could operate three hundred miles or more inland. It's just good common sense to keep him away, isn't it? And you don't keep him away by sitting offshore with your arms folded waiting for him to hit you."

Admiral Bloch impresses you as being a simple, practical man with a grasp of the realities he doesn't mind talking about war, because that is what the navy is for. He doesn't want war, but he is keeping his navy exercised and prepared for it, a reassuring thought for the citizen-landlubbers.

'Can't Win 'Em All.'

But in connection with this topic he had some simple and pungent observations to make. He said—"Nobody ever wins every battle in a war. Wars are not pleasant things, and when there is a war, somebody always gets hurt. No navy in the world can stop every thrust, no more than a fighter in a ring can block every punch. The ability of a country to take it in a war is of utmost importance. The enemy is bound to slip through here and there and deal out punishment. A nation in war must learn to take its reverses as well as victories. But the fight is won over the long pull by the country with the most weight, the greatest number of ships, the best men and officers, the best marksmanship, the greatest efficiency."

THEATER

LITTLE MISS BROADWAY will place the becurled and bedimpled Miss Temple in a vaudeville boarding house in New York City, where "guests" will include El Brendel, Jimmy Durante and Phyllis Brooks. . . . The trio that made "In Old Chicago"—Tyrone Power, Don Ameche and Alice Faye—will make the Irving Berlin picture, "Alexander's Ragtime Band," which incidentally, was the name of Berlin's first big song hit. . . . It is still undecided what will be done with the Charlie Chan series since Warner Oland's withdrawal from pictures. He may be induced to return after he has had an opportunity to recover from a recent breakdown or the company may give the role he has made famous to some other player.

You'll Be Seeing Her.

Louise Platt, who makes her screen debut with Joan Bennett in "I Met My Love Again," at the Ohio, makes an impression, despite the fact that at times she is not attractive. She is said to have been discouraged over her first picture, and had headed back toward New York when Walter Wanger, producer of the picture, saw the first screening and decided to take up his option on her contract. So the chances are that movie goers will see a great deal of Louise in Wanger pictures, which are released through United Artists. In her first picture she plays the other girl who fights for the affections of Henry Fonda, in love with Miss Bennett. Alan Marshall is in the cast. The picture runs through Saturday, the new show for next week opening at midnight tomorrow.

Villains Are Smoother.

The villain with the heavy brow and mustache is definitely out, because even in Western action films, producers are substituting villains that are more subtle, handsomer and polished. In Hopalong Cassidy's latest adventure, "Partners of the Plains" the villain is handsome John Warburton, whose conniving for her hand would please rather than insult the average girl. Not only is this villain attractive, but he's college bred. Which complicates the situation for Hopalong who fails in love with the same girl. A roaring forest fire, with the girl trapped in a cabin, provides a climax with suspense William Boyd is Hopy and Gwen Gaze is the girl in this Madison theater attraction.

"Cattle Raiders."

"Cattle Raiders," with Charles Starrett in the leading role opens at the Majestic theater today for a two-day run. In the film Starrett portrays a young cowhand who returns home to find himself branded as a murderer. His initialed gun, found at the scene of the murder, and the stories of his weakling brother and a shady cattle dealer, constitute the evidence against him. He then proceeds to bring the real murderers to justice in a series of thrilling adventures. The No. 2 feature is "Ten Laps to Go," a race track story, with Rex Lease, Muriel Evans, Duncan Renaldo and Tom Moore in the leading roles.

"The Phantom of the Range."

Tom Tyler comes to the Rita theater today in the western, "The Phantom of the Range," with Beth Marion, Sammy Cohen, Forrest Taylor and Charles King in the principal supporting roles. Tyler plays the role of a cowpuncher who becomes the unwitting possessor of a secret chart locating a dead miser's hoard of money when he purchases a ranch and an old picture at an auction sale. The old miser's granddaughter informs Tyler of the dangerous property, but he takes the warning lightly until a gang of murders make it their job of relieving him of the chart. Jane Withers in "Wild and Woolly," completes the double feature program.

GIRL KILLED, 24 OTHERS MENACED

Auto Runs Into Students As They Leave Train.

CANTON—(AP)—One girl was injured fatally and a number of others suffered minor hurts last night when an automobile which Sheriff Joseph T Nist said was driven by Sam Feiman, secretary-treasurer of the S & J. Feiman Inc, plowed into a group of 25 Massillon girls who had just alighted from a street car in front of Mt Marie Academy on the Canton-Massillon road.

Killed was Harriett Hoey, 16, a sophomore at the school.

Sheriff Joseph T. Nist and Coroner E. C Reno said today they would question Feiman concerning the accident.

Stocks Encounter Profit Selling

OPENING GAINS REDUCED NEAR SECOND HOUR

Copper Prices Respond to Large Buying of Metal In Foreign Market.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The Stock market encountered profit selling today after an opening flourish that lifted virtually all departments fractions to a point or more.

Overnight buying orders speeded the ticker tape at the start, but when these were filled there was a let-down in activity and, near the second hour, extreme advances had been reduced or cancelled in many cases.

Coppers again responded to large buying of the metal abroad, with the export price above domestic quotations for the first time in several months.

Commodities once more pointed upward. Bonds were slightly mixed. Most foreign securities markets were higher.

While reaffirmation of second quarter steel prices by U. S. Steel was seen as a constructive market sign, analysts noted dark spots continuing on the business firmament.

Recent curtailment of public spending was reflected in the week-end trade review of Dun & Bradstreet which found that, while retail distribution in leading centers was 1 to 5 per cent ahead of the preceding week, it was 3 to 6 per cent under a year ago for the country as a whole.

BOSTON WOOL

BOSTON—(AP)—(U. S. Dept. of Agr.)—Mills yesterday were making a few inquiries for western grown fine wools, but purchases were made only in cases of urgent immediate requirement. Small quantities of Texas wools have been included in recent purchases of this character. Spot twelve months Texas wool has brought around 63 to 65 cents scoured basis while eight months Texas wool has been moved at around 60 to 62 cents scoured basis. Some choice twelve month Texas wools were being held at prices substantially above 65 cents scoured basis.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
SUMMARY OF ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1937

THE 91st Annual Report of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company covering operations for 1937 will be presented to the stockholders at the annual meeting on April 12, 1938. Total operating revenues increased over 1936 by $14,508,320 or 3.3%. Operating expenses increased $23,873,592 (due principally to higher wage scales, larger expenditures for maintenance, higher costs of materials and supplies and greater expenses incident to increased business). Net income was $27,278,638, as compared with $38,742,091 in 1936. Surplus was equal to 2.9% upon the outstanding Capital Stock as compared with 4.8% in 1936. Surplus per share (par $50) was $1.45 as compared with $2.38 in 1936.

OPERATING RESULTS

	1937	Comparison with 1936 Increase or Decrease
Total Operating Revenues were	$455,933,509	I	$14,508,320
Total Operating Expenses were	337,951,293	I	23,873,592
Leaving Net Revenue from Railway Operations of	117,972,216	D	9,365,272
Taxes amounted to	39,332,751	I	4,618,602
Hire of Equipment and Joint Facility Rents were	5,638,538	D	2,804,208
Leaving Net Railway Operating Income of	73,000,927	D	11,179,666
Income from Investments and other Sources amounted to	37,559,227	I	1,439,694
Making Gross Income of	110,560,154	D	9,739,972
Rental for Leased Lines, Interest on the Company's Debt and other Charges amounted to	83,281,516	I	1,723,481
Leaving Net Income of	27,278,638	D	11,463,453
Appropriations to Sinking and other Funds, etc.	8,144,466	I	801,726
Surplus (Equal to 2.9% on Capital Stock)	19,134,172	D	12,265,179

Dividends aggregating 2½% ($1.25 per share) were paid during the year and charged against 1937 income. Both gross and net income were adversely affected to the extent of about $15,000,000, as compared with 1936, by the elimination of the so-called emergency charges on freight traffic.

Outstanding Features of Our Harness

- Metal non-wear buckles on lines, back and hip straps.
- All breeching and belly bands are leather filled.
- Dees in ends of breeching, at rear of martingales, and on back pads in place of rings.
- Lined laps both stitched and riveted.
- Well waxed linen thread used in all stitching.
- Traces pre-stretched before stitching to eliminate breaking of thread under heavy pulling.

PARK PROGRAM GIVEN IMPETUS

Town Hall Agrees That Plan to Expand, Beautify City System Imperative.

obtain additional land that would provide parks and boulevards from Bowman street through North Lake park, to Fourth street and Park avenue, to Millsboro road along the B. & O. railroad. He also suggested the acquiring of land along Ritter's run from South Main street to Woodland which would allow for a boulevard, through a park in that area that would provide another highway artery to that section of the city without going through the city.

Moving pictures and slides showing the run-down conditions of the city's west end park system brought about a discussion concerning the city holding the title to Maple lake unless it was kept up.

The pictures showed that the once beautiful show spot of Mansfield had been permitted to become an unsightly swamp and some present expressed the opinion that the lake property, deeded to the city for park purposes if maintained, might revert to heirs of the donor were it allowed to "go to rack."

Mrs. E. P. Brunk, Shelby, daughter of former Parks Superintendent Jack Arnold, who is credited with having built the lake into one of the city beauty spots more than a decade ago, told the group that unless the lake was maintained, that the city might have to turn the property over to the heirs.

Outlines First Step.

Sowers outlined the first step designed towards cleaning up the city parks, a WPA project calling for the expenditure of $25,000, with approximately $19,000 being furnished by WPA and $6,000 by the city.

He explained that the project would be in connection with improvement planned for South, Middle, North Lake, Maple Lake, Prospect, Liberty and Johns parks, with the largest sums to be spent in South and Middle parks.

Sowers pointed out that although the city's share was approximately $6,000, purchases of some materials locally and the use of city trucks, the city's share might not run more than $3,000 actually spent.

Fred Miller, chairman of city council's finance committee assured the group that the program would be given his support when it reached council. He was joined by Mayor Claude M. Hunter, Harry M. Emmons, chairman of council's parks committee, and Second ward Councilan C. N. Shultz.

"I assure you that I am in sympathy with the program," Miller said. "And I am also in favor of two more swimming pools for the children."

Stressing the need for proper supervision on such a project, Mrs. A. J. Reynolds, president of the Mansfield Garden club, pointed out the necessity for employing experienced labor in tree trimming so that some of the rare varieties might be preserved. She suggested that definite plans be drafted for a long range program.

Labor groups also represented at the meeting said they were in accord with any improvement plan that might give work to the unemployed in Mansfield.

Andrew Bishop, former secretary of the Richland county Industrial council, the new CIO central unit, urged the group to "get busy on some definite plans that will extend over a period of years."

The immediate passage of appropriations by council to get the project started to Washington for approval was urged by J. L. Snowden, representing the Workers' Alliance.

Sowers explained that the project had been approved by the WPA district office and was now on file with Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert awaiting the approval of an appropriation by council before being sent to Washington for a federal grant

TRUCK HITS BUS

TOLEDO—(AP)—Fifteen pupils of Clay school were shaken today when an Oregon township bus, which had stopped for passengers, was struck in the rear by a transport truck.

The accident occurred a half mile from the scene of a similar accident Jan. 6, 1937, when two Clay high school pupils were killed when a transport truck rammed a school bus.

COUNCIL SPLIT LOOMS TONIGHT

Mayor Faces First Fight With Solons Over Operation of Sewage Plant.

sures to be presented by Hunter sets up the plant operation on a permanent basis and calls for a new position of superintendent of sewers, which will combine two positions that had been in the sewer department previous to the first of the year, the mayor explained.

He added that by abolishing the job of sewer maintainer who was paid $125 per month, and the job of sewer rate adjuster at $150 a month, and combining the jubs under the superintendent of sewers at $150 a month, would pave the way to defray the expenses of a technical supervisor at the plant. The state health department recommended that a supervisor be employed "for at least one year" under the present setup with a class "C" engineer at the head of the plant.

The second measure authorizes Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert to re-hire James Collier of Eylria as technician at the plant at the salary of $125 a month.

The third issue will be for the transfer of $1,500 from the sanitary sewer fund to pay Collier's salary for the year.

Third Ward Councilman George Kyle said today he will lead the move to have the plant operation set-up on an entirely new basis

"I am in favor of hiring a qualified engineer to take over the operation of the plant—and for striking from the existing ordinance that clause that calls for the superintendent of the plant to be a resident of the city."

He advocated going outside of Mansfield for the "right man" if necessary and said he was opposed to using the taxpayers' money for what he called "an experimental station."

He was joined by Second Ward Councilman C. N. Shultz who said he was in favor of three readings of the bills

"Such a vital question to the city should not be passed as an emergency measure with only snap judgment" Shultz said.

TIDE OF NAZI PROTEST RISES

Austria Told to 'Listen,' Not to 'Talk' as Hitlerism Begins to Take Hold.

field of practice the agreement for closest co-operation between Europe's two great German-speaking nations.

The agreement, in effect marking Nazidom's longest definite step across the German frontier, was reached by Austria's Chancellor Schuschnigg and Germany's Fuehrer Hitler in momentous conference last Saturday.

On the political side, it already had brought into the Austrian cabinet for the first time five men sympathetic to Nazism, although the party has been outlawed in Austria since 1934.

Despite Germany's frequent avowal that Nazlism was a home product, there seemed no doubt it had been shipped into Austria in considerable quantities, and Central Europe was concerned lest other states might be affected also.

With the political changes already begun, there have been indications the new Pan-German experiment also would include economic and perhaps military co-operation between Germany and Austria.

Britain Asks Italy's Envoy to 'Explain.'

LONDON — (INS) — Britain's government, worried at the trend of events in Central Europe, plunged headlong into the swirling diplomatic intrigue surrounding Chaifcellor Hitler's drive for Nazification of Austria.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden asked Italian Ambassador Count Dino Grandi for an explanation of Premier Mussolini's desertion of Austria before the advance of the German Nazi steamroller.

They aso asked Grandi to state whether Italy is prepared to do anything to counteract what they termed Hitler's virtual annexation of Austria.

These requests were made by the British statesmen at a meeting at Chamberlain's official residence, 10 Downing street, attended only by three conferees.

At the same time, through diplomatic channels, the British government sought to steer Hitler away from alarming utterances in his reichstag speech Sunday and to urge him to proclaim no new demands which might wreck London's efforts to negotiate a general European peace and security past.

These attempts at easing the situation were buttressed by British and French inquiries for fuller information from Berlin regarding Hitler's ultimate intentions toward Austria.

Indications were the British and French will now pass the buck to Mussolini for a change, excusing themselves from action on grounds that Il Duce is "unwilling to help."

AUNT JENNY SAYS—HERE'S A CHERRY PIE WITH THE TASTIEST FILLING AND TENDEREST CRUST YOU EVER ATE!

Try it!

Try Aunt Jenny's RED CHERRY PIE

3 cups canned, pitted red cherries
½ cup cherry juice
½ cup sugar (more, if desired)
2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
½ teaspoon salt
1 recipe Spry Pie Crust
1 tablespoon butter

Combine cherries, juice, sugar, tapioca and salt. Let stand while pie crust is being made. Roll ½ of dough and line a 9-inch pie plate. Fill pie shell with cherry mixture. Dot with butter. Moisten edge of pie with water.

Roll remaining dough for top crust and make decorative openings with small round cutter. Fit top crust over cherries and seal edge of pie. Brush crust with milk and sprinkle with sugar. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 30 to 40 minutes. You'll be delighted with the flaky tenderness of both upper and lower crusts!

SPRY PIE CRUST

2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup Spry
5 tablespoons water (about)

No need to chill ingredients to get flaky crust with Spry. Sift flour and salt together. Add ½ of Spry and cut in until mixture is as fine as corn meal. (Takes only a jiffy with triple-creamed Spry!) Add remaining Spry and continue cutting until particles are size of navy bean. Sprinkle water, 1 tablespoon at a time, over mixture. With a fork, work lightly together until a dough is formed.

(All measurements in these recipes are level)

In 6-lb., 3-lb. and 1-lb. cans

(Clip and save this Spry recipe)

So EASY to bake and fry with Spry

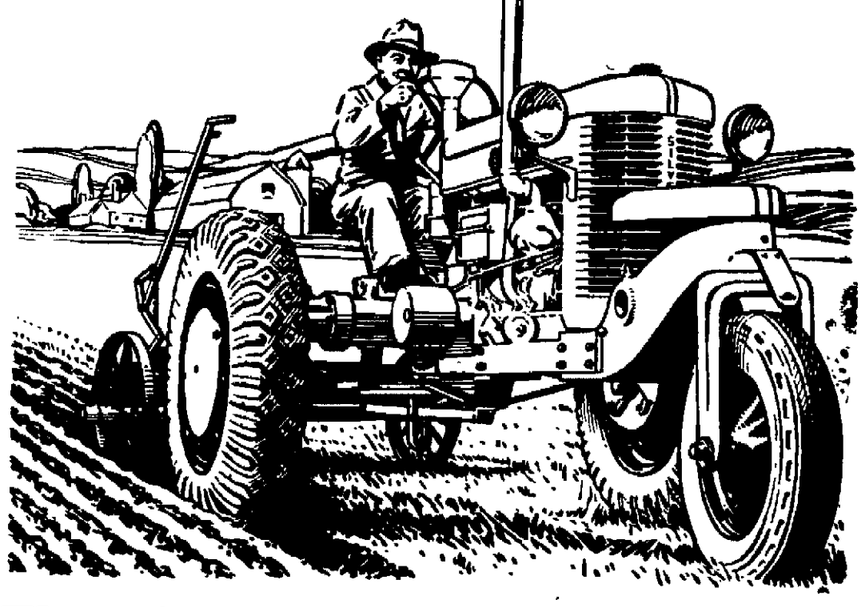
—and foods are doubly delicious

WANT proof? Make this Cherry Pie. See how tender, flaky and delicate the crust is. Make a cake with Spry. How fine-grained and velvety, what flavor! Fry with Spry. Foods are crisper, tastier, so digestible. And how much easier Spry mixes. Cooking experts for 281 home-making schools say, "Creamiest shortening I ever used!"

Spry TRIPLE CREAMED!

The new, purer ALL-vegetable shortening

IT'S HERE!



The 1938 SILVER KING TRACTOR

Here is the tractor you have been wanting . . . it has all the features that are needed to do any kind of farm work. From tillage to harvesting, the SILVER KING will do it quicker and at lower cost. From draw bar to radiator many improved features are found that give real tractor economy on any farm. The Silver King has MORE weight which gives additional traction — bigger gas tank — heavier differential, and an IMPROVED Draw Bar with platform, putting the power where you want it. Cultivator attachment gives full draw bar use.

Visit the Factory

You're invited to come to Plymouth and make a tour of the plant and see how the Silver King tractor is made. Or if you prefer a demonstration, drop a post card to The Fate-Root-Heath Co., Plymouth, Ohio, and complete arrangements will be made.

The "ECONOMY" Tractor

MORE work at LESS cost . . . you don't have to consider a "small type" tractor to get the desired economical operations you want on your farm, for the SILVER KING gives you SPEED, POWER and ECONOMY in a REGULAR SIZE TRACTOR. Added weight, more traction and power, improved cultivating attachment which gives full use of the draw bar, are among the outstanding features—see them!

STATE OKAY OF $50,000 WPA PROJECT SEEN

Calls For Dredging of Ritter's Run and Rocky Fork Creek and 6 Drainage Ditches.

State approval of a $50,000 WPA project for the dredging of Ritter's run and Rocky Fork creek in Mansfield and six drainage ditches in the county had virtually been assured today, according to city and county officials.

The approval of both state and national WPA offices for the flood-prevention work is needed, however, and Walter E. Rusk, deputy county engineer, said it would be 30 or 40 days before the matter is decided.

The tentative program, designed to provide work for a part of the county's unemployed and as a flood-control measure, was set up at Columbus at a meeting of state WPA officials with Rusk and Mayor Claude M. Hunter several days ago.

"State men regarded the plan favorably," Rusk said, "and we have every reason to believe they will approve it and send it to Washington for the final O. K."

Would Give 200 Jobs.

A flexible project, the plan would extend over a period of 10 months and provide work for as many as 200 men, Rusk explained.

In view of the heavy relief load in the winter and spring months, most of the men would be employed on the work in Mansfield for the first two or three months, and then a smaller number on the projects in the county later in the year, it was said.

The project would include the construction of a retaining wall along Ritter's run in the vicinity of Adams and East Second street and the dredging of Rocky Fork over its entire length in the Mansfield city limits.

The six ditches which would be cleaned out in the county are the Lanehart ditch, Jefferson township; Wright ditch at Springmill; Lincoln Heights drainage ditch; Dininger ditch in Cass township; Gray-Hagenbaugh ditch in Jackson township, and the Possum Run ditch, south of Mansfield.

THE PIPER'S TUNE

By JOSEPH McCORD
(Copyright 1938)

CHAPTER XXXII

Late in the evening she was in a small reception room off the drawing-room. Two men were speaking so loudly that she was forced to hear. She moved aside to the shelter of a partly drawn portiere and listened shamelessly.

"Guess Terry'll be around in a couple of days, now!"

"Wouldn't wonder. Some sucker list he lined up here tonight."

"Yeah. Looks like that gusher dame of his wasn't so bright as the paper tried to make out—cute-looking little trick, too."

"She doesn't need anything—not with that roll. Terry's got what it takes. Always was a lucky devil . . ."

They must have moved away. Their words were swallowed in the general babel of talk. Caradad felt a hand laid lightly on her shoulder and turned with a start to find Severance looking down at her.

"I've been stalking you for ten minutes," he smiled. "You don't seem to be very busy—why don't you take me out on the roof and let me show you the kingdoms and the glory?" He drew her arm through his. A moment later, they were in a shadowy, secluded corner beside a balustrade. Beyond and below, a panorama of gloom that was pricked by countless lights.

"Now then, Miss Achilles," Severance began severely," and just why were you sulking in your tent when I found you?"

"I wasn't sulking," Caradad said in a low voice, staring out into the night. "I had been—powdering my nose."

"Too bad you couldn't have put some cotton in your ears. I was eavesdropping myself — awfully sorry you had to be hurt. Try to forget it, Caradad. What these people say isn't worth taking to heart."

"No," she answered dully. "I guess it isn't."

"I know it isn't. It's a part of—all this. I found it out a long time ago and learned to keep away. I was afraid you'd run into it. I'm glad you have a sense of humor." Severance rested his arms on the balustrade. His shoulder was brushing hers. "But you have another thing that I'm tempted to wish you didn't have."

"And what is that?" Caradad did not turn her head as she asked it.

"Money. That is, so much money. That is what has let you in for all this—where you don't belong."

There was no reply.

* * *

"You know," Severance was going on, in the whimsical manner he sometimes adopted to hide his real feelings," speaking of Temptations, I'm getting to be a second Saint Anthony. I'll soon be running around with a skull in my hand—he was the old chap with a skull, wasn't he?"

"He must have had one," she admitted. "If he was able to run around. What has been tempting you?"

"Don't forget you asked for it. It's idiotic, of course. But I'm strongly tempted to pick you up under my arm and kidnap you—take you to Australia, for instance."

"Why?"

"Well, it's a safe distance, for one thing. Lots of curious things to see—duckbill platypuses."

"I've always wanted to see a platypus," answered a tight little voice.

"Caradad . . . Well, if I'm going to be a bounder, I might as well be a good one. You know what's tempting me most. It's to forget that you belong to anybody—but me. You really don't. Not yet. But I—I know that I have to remember."

"Yes . . ." It was the barest whisper.

"Strange," he mused. "Before tonight, I would have apologized to you for such a lapse—and I can't. I don't pretend to know what had happened to me. I give you my word I never was like that before about anybody. I've a notion I never will be again . . . which is a very good thing. You know, you've disrupted my existence considerably."

"I'm sorry."

"And I'm not. I can't seem to care much. I hate to abandon you to your fate, but maybe it's the best thing that could happen . . . to me."

"I expect so."

"Caradad?"

"Yes?"

"This seems my night to be—to go to extremes. I'd like to ask you for something. Oh, it's not serious. Merely a request."

"What is it?"

"A whim, I suppose. But I'd like to think that, if there was a time ever that you needed—anybody, you'd give me a chance. For any service whatever." He turned his head and she knew he was trying to see her face in the shadows. "Too much to ask?"

"No. It isn't too much. I promise."

Severance's shoulder was still touching hers. She felt his arm stiffen slightly. "You are being hunted," he drawled. "It's Mr. Cantine. I seem always to be caught when I have you to myself, don't I?" He stood erect as Terry approached.

"Is that you, Dad?" Cantine peered into the retreat beside the balustrade.

"Yes. Did you want me, Terry?"

"Only wanted to tell you that some of your guests are leaving. I've been trying to locate you."

"My fault, Cantine," Severance explained cheerfully. "I abducted Miss Vardell by main force and dragged her here—in fact, I've been making rather violent love to her. Beautiful night."

Terry's answering laugh had a hollow sound, Caradad thought. It was a ridiculous thing for Severance to say. And she was thankful it was so dark.

The last guests, uttering polite, if none too coherent, insistences regarding a pleasant evening, had gone. Caradad, Gerta and Terry were left alone — "among the ruins" the latter remarked affably, fortifying himself with a final drink. "A fine, large time," he decided.

"I believe everything passed off very nicely," Gerta observed, with a suppressed yawn. Her slender, green-clad form reclined in the depths of an easy chair. "I'm frightfully tired. Are you ready to escort me home, Mr. Cantine?"

"I would be glad to have you stay with me tonight," Caradad offered dutifully. "You can sleep as late as you like in the morning."

"Oh, I think I'd better trot along to my own little nest," Gerta decided.

Terry put his empty glass aside and got to his feet. "I'm ready. I've got a lot to do tomorrow—today, I mean. If I don't get some sleep, I'll be in a bad way. I think we did ourselves proud tonight Dad." He smiled to her. "I overheard a lot of little remarks—it's going to surprise you how popular this place will be. Well, I'll drop around sometime in the afternoon and see how you're making out. Come along, Gerta."

After they were gone, Caradad dropped into a chair and sat lost in thought while Wilberforce moved about noiselessly, restoring chairs to their place sand extinguishing the lights.

"Will there be anything else, ma'am?" he inquired.

"No thank you, Wilberforce. You may leave the light on the table. I will put it out."

Caradad sat gazing at the one burning lamp, wide-eyed. She was so weary that every nerve in her body seemed a taut and separate ache. Finally she rose and walked over to the table . . . then choked over an hysterical laugh that was more nearly a sob . . .

Terry having to get up early so that he could go to . . . to work. Terry saying he had overheard lots of little things. She had overheard, too. So had Mr. Severance.

John Severance . . .

It was almost five o'clock in the afternoon when Terry, hollowed-eyed but genial, appeared at Caradad's apartment. But he was not alone. His companions proved to be a Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose and a Mr. Snider. From the manner of their greetings, Caradad assumed they must have been among her guests the night before.

Caradad's toilet was studied through a leisurely lorgnette, and conversation with Mrs. Ambrose was rendered difficult by the fact that good woman was distinctly bored with the world and most of its inhabitants. Terry contributed to an already strained atmosphere by carrying the gentlemen off to the little library across the hall for no apparent reason.

Wilberforce came to the rescue with the tea tray and a little later inquired if the gentlemen cared for refreshments. The subsequent sound of glass tinkling indicated that the gentlemen did. After what seemed an interminable lapse of time, the three left.

"Hope you didn't mind my dragging those chaps up here," Terry said affably. "I got them cornered here last night at the party for a few minutes but wanted another chance at them—suggested they drop around and have a couple of cocktails before dinner."

"It was all right, of course," Caradad answered quietly. She was standing at the window looking out and did not turn, as she asked casually, "Were you successful?" She was asking herself if Messrs. Ambrose and Snider were included in that "sucker list."

"Why, yes—pretty sure I'm going to land them." Then they were on the list.

Terry strolled over to the window and stood beside Caradad, his hands thrust in his trousers pockets.

Choosing Companions in Service

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 20 is Mark 3:7-19; 31-35, the Golden Text being Mark 3:35, "For whosoever will do the will of God, the same is my brother.")

THE UGLY shadow of the cross falls clearly across the path of Jesus in the midst of his popular ministry in Galilee as his enemies, the Pharisees, confer with the Herodians on "how they might destroy him." From this opposition "Jesus with his disciples withdrew to the sea: and a great multitude from Galilee followed."

Jesus' Popularity.

Great throngs of people gathered about him from every direction, from Judaea and Idumaea on the south, from beyond Jordan to the east, from Galilee to the north, and even from Tyre and Sidon on the Mediterranean sea to the west, "hearing what great things he did," they "came unto him." He even had to take precaution of having his disciples arrange "that a little boat should wait on him because of the crowd, lest they should throng him. For he healed many insomuch that as many as had plagues pressed upon him that they might touch him."

Choosing the Twelve.

Both this increasing popularity and the increasing opposition led Jesus to choose from his followers an inner circle whom he designated "apostles," who might carry on his work after his enemies should succeed in crucifying him. Luke tells us that this choice of the twelve was proceeded by an entire night in prayer: "He went out into the mountains to pray; and he continued all night in prayer to God. And when it was day he called his disciples: and he chose from them, twelve, whom he also named apostles." Mark adds the significant note which indicates our Lord's purpose in this appointment, viz., "He appointed twelve, that they might be with him, and that he might send them forth." This order of events is vitally important. Jesus communed with God in prayer through the night: then he came to men and made his choice from them. For those he chooses he prescribes the same order. They are first to "be with him" before he "might send them forth." Communion must precede conquest; fellowship must beget fruitfulness and experience prepare the way for expression. Christ's order is always "Come and see," then, "Go and tell." We defeat ourselves when we set out upon his work without first equipping ourselves for it by communion with him. His companions in service must first be companions before they can be servants.

The Making of the Twelve.

When Jesus chose the twelve he challenged them to high achievement with the promise, "Follow me and I will make you to become." And he truly made them to become all they did become. He found them unknown, he made them well known through the ages. He found them poor, he made them enrichers of all subsequent centuries. He found them ordinary men; he made them extraordinary.

Kinship With Jesus.

So zealously did Jesus give himself to his passion to bless humanity through his teaching and healing ministry that his own family said, "He is beside himself." And they came to restrain his enthusiasm and take him home with them. When Jesus learned of their presence and purpose he said, "Who is my mother and my brethren?" We emphasize the ties of blood by saying, "Blood is thicker than water." But Jesus puts the ties of faith above those of blood, as, pointing to his disciples he said, "Behold my mother and brethren! For whosoever shall do the will of God, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother."

ENTER ASHLAND FORENSIC EVENT

17 Senior High Students to Compete Saturday In Oratory Contest.

Mansfield Senior high school will be represented by 17 students from the school's speech department at an oratory and declamation contest Saturday at Ashland high school by the National Forensic league.

The contest will be the second held at Ashland, and is scheduled to begin at 9 a m, with four rounds of competition planned for all contestants Registration of contestants will begin at 8:30 a m.

Representing the high school will be Esther Jenkins, Virginia Casperson, Betty Reese, Grace Honse, Miriam Jenkins, Norma Casey, Vivian Miller, Willis Lewis, Alice Mathews, Helen Sternbaum, Donald Speakman, Margaret Miller, Robert Sheriff, Herbert Garnes, Audrey Morton, and Kathleen MacIntosh.

The Mansfield students won first place in the last event held at Ashland They were scheduled to take part in a declamation contest last week at Shelby but canceled their participation because of the smallpox outbreak.

Judges from Mansfield will be Virginia Jenkins, and E. L. Heasley, dramatic instructor at the high school.

Out For Congress

Colonel Oliver H. Dockerty, jr., of Newark, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for congress from the 17th district, which includes Richland county. Colonel Dockerty, a retired U. S Army officer, was defeated for the nomination in the primary two years ago by James A. Glenn of Coshocton. Dockerty ran second in a field of six candidates.

Politicians seem to do right well in at least one kind of business—monkey business.

The Filipinos have a budget surplus — not yet having acquired all the advantage of civilization.

Word comes that the fasting dean down in Memphis has put on 45 pounds since he resumed eating—which seems to be a much better idea.

Mansfield's Neglected Parks.

MANSFIELD'S public park system was the subject discussed at last evening's Town Hall meeting, held in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room.

It was a well-attended meeting. Much interest was shown. All who spoke were in agreement that Mansfield parks deserve more attention than they have been receiving in recent years.

Extending along the west part of the city, from north to south, is a series of parks which offer as great opportunity for beautification as can be found anywhere in the state.

Yet these parks, through lack of a sufficiently widespread public interest, have been permitted to deteriorate to such an extent as to be a reflection on the city, rather than a credit to it.

Maple Lake park, once a much frequented recreational center and beauty spot, has been allowed to revert into a disease-breeding swamp, from which noxious odors arise throughout the summer to carry a disagreeable stench into nearby homes.

Central park, with its ancient band stand and generally unkempt appearance, falls far short of comparing favorably with similar centers in other cities.

Exceptions to the gloomy picture may be found in Johns park, which has been made into a fine recreational spot in the northwest section; Prospect park, which, in size rather inadequately meets the needs of the south portion of the city, and the newly-created Liberty park and swimming pool, serving the northeast part of Mansfield.

It will be noted that in each of these last-named instances the accomplishments came largely through individual effort and group activity in the particular sections in which these parks are located.

North park has also benefited materially in recent years as a result of interest shown by the association devoted to that special activity.

Garden club members have also been an important factor in spreading the idea of community beautification.

Plans are now under way which contemplate considerable improvement in Mansfield's park system, with a view to working out a practicable program intended to extend well into the future.

A spread of interest throughout the city, comparable to that displayed at the Town Hall meeting, would assure the success of any program decided upon.

To Expand Girl Scout Program.

WHILE more public interest may have heretofore been shown in the Boy Scouts than in the Girl Scouts organization in Mansfield, there is no discernible reason why this should continue.

The only plausible explanation is that the Boy Scouts made an earlier start and have had opportunity to organize more troops and gain larger membership than has the Girl Scouts organization.

Each of these Scouting groups is motivated by such fine purposes and high ideals as to merit community support, both in a financial way and in providing such voluntary leadership as may be needed in carrying the benefits of the Scout program to every boy and girl in city and vicinity who is attracted thereto.

For the past year or more there has been a steadily increasing interest in expanding the Girl Scout movement in Mansfield and it is gratifying to note that this activity has reached the point of presenting a definite program in which the community will be permitted to participate.

Proposal to add the Girl Scouts as a participating agency in the Community Fund is a phase of the expansion program that seems worthy of favorable consideration.

The importance of encouraging and sustaining such organizations as the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts in this community can scarcely be overemphasized.

Unity In Variety.

THIS is not only a country of great opportunity but its size permits a wide range of choice in weather, with facilities for moving quickly from one to the other. According to a recent news report:

"Freak weather gripped the entire nation yesterday. In no two sections was the weather similar. All types of conditions were reported, including floods, blizzards, dust storms, earthquakes, sub-zero temperatures and balmy, summerlike weather. As the Southwest dug itself out of heavy blizzards, the west coast fought floods, and residents of the Mississippi valley girded themselves for menacing high waters. Sub-zero temperatures were reported in North Dakota, while a few hundred miles east citizens took Sunday strolls in summerlike 70-degree temperatures."

Our country is so big and varied that we have many climates and countries in one. But in contrast, there is only one nation, growing continually more unified.

Not All Insects Are Pests.

WHILE some kinds of insects do more than a billion dollars worth of damage to farm crops and forests each year, according to authorities, other insects are doing more than two billion dollars worth of good, thus leaving a favorable balance for mankind.

Beneficial insects produce silk, beeswax, shellac, cochineal and honey. The most important contribution they make to the welfare of man is in pollination of flowers, essential to the production of fruits and vegetables.

There is something awesome in the fact that insects have been on earth 50,000,000 years to man's 500,000. It might be wise of human beings to study insects and learn something from them about co-operation and adaptability.

CEILING LOW, VISIBILITY POOR

Administration Foreign Policy Still Puzzles

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON— Our foreign policy has been explained to the tune of thousands of words But what do they mean? Scarcely any two recognized authorities are agreed on the answer to that question.

President Roosevelt and his various spokesmen express themselves voluminously enough, but when querists raise the point, "How, please, is such-and-such an utterance to be interpreted?" the stock rejoinder, in effect, is, "Surely that ought to be clear to any normal intelligence." Well, if so, sub-normal intelligence must be in about a 99 9 per cent majority.

Oh, yes, we all know we have to have a powerful armament for "purely defensive" purposes. But who ever heard of a country which, getting into a war, admitted that it was getting in otherwise than defensively? Even Japan professes, now, to be fighting defensively in China.

AS STEWART VIEWS IT

It may be arguable that an under-armed people, by being so obviously easy to defeat, invites aggression However, it is equally arguable that a heavily-armed people to say the least carries its chip rather lightly on its shoulder.

When the World war started the United States undoubtedly was under-armed—and President Wilson was as neutral, in his declarations, as any pacifist could have desired. But presently it struck him that we needed "preparedness" not to take us into the conflict, but to keep us out of it. So we got a modicum of pacific preparedness—and shortly sent an army 3 000 miles away, across the Atlantic, to protect us against invasion

BRYAN OPPOSED WILSON

When President Wilson began to develop his preparedness complex Secretary of State William J. Bryan took alarm and resigned, because he could not head off the tendency. It surely foreshadowed American participation in the war, he reasoned. And so it did

Today President Roosevelt takes the preparedness slant, and Secretary of State Cordell Hull stands by him.

Secretary Hull is as good a patriot and pacifist as Secretary Bryan was, but one may wonder if he should not have learned something from the history of the 19-teens.

Anyway, our current "foreign policy" talk is puzzling.

LABOR FEARS?

Labor sentiment is all whichways concerning the wage-hour program

Labor favors it but doesn't like it.

The organized workers favor a minimum wage, indeed, but are afraid that the minimum will become a maximum—and that maximum hours will become a minimum Also there is the fear that labor will be enslaved by enforced arbitration between employers and employes

RECOVERY BEGUN?

And as to miscellaneous economics?

What caused the recession?

Or IS there a recession? Some accounts are that a recovery has begun to assert itself. Does recovery need to be encouraged? Or does an incipient boom need to be curbed?

And now we have farm legislation that defies analysis even by experts.

There never before was so contradictory an era.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Feb. 18, 1918.

The News printed a letter from Louis Bromfield, written from France where he was with the American forces

With sugar purchases restricted, a West First street resident sprinkled sackful on icy pavement, thinking it was salt.

Mrs John Bognaird, 76, died at her home, 86 Glenwood boulevard.

Miss Minnie Miller and Chauncey M. Chatlain were married by Rev J T. LeGear at First M E. church.

A D Rowlands went to Toledo to attend furniture dealers' convention.

Unusually large number of automobiles were being stolen and car owners were warned to use all precautions to prevent theft

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Feb. 18, 1933.

The News-Journal moved from South Walnut street to the plant of The News, corner Fourth and Walnut streets.

Miss Frances Combs and Clyde Pittman were married at St Matthew's church.

Mrs. O. B. Adams and infant son were dismissed from General hospital

L. L Wolf spent the day at White Cross hospital, Columbus, visiting E. L Wolf, who was a patient there.

Miss Margaret Fair, student nurse, was confined to her home, 37 Fair street, by illness.

Equipment was stolen from a car belonging to Charles Russell, 11 Washington street.

Listen, World!

Love Is Its Own Reward.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DOES love pay? Is love ever worth what it costs? Can love ever be successful?

Yes—love can do all, be all, these things. But there's one secret which you must learn in order to have it so. And that is? This—

IT ISN'T THE LOVE YOU GET, BUT THE LOVE YOU GIVE, THAT COUNTS.

If you start out to love on a "value received" policy, you're heading for complete and corroding failure. For no human being, however admirable, will ever live up to your own expectations of what you deserve. You'll always—according to your notion—be giving more than you get. No kindness can balance your tenderness . . . no service can measure up to your sacrifice . . . no companionship can approach your own in love or loyalty, beauty or nobility.

In short, if you're going to make a "profit and loss" proposition of love, you'll always be short-changed, according to your own reckoning. And the only compensation you'll get out of such love will be an A No 1 Martyr Complex

But, on the other hand, if you go into LOVE FOR LOVE'S SAKE, you'll always win, no matter what the other fellow may be or do.

He (or she) may be a weakling, a cheat, a coward, a parasite, an all 'round heel, yet if you have the courage and strength to love without counting the cost, you will be better for it

Love is not a commercial commodity It is an act of grace. And like every other act of grace, it is its own reward.

Think of love as you would think of courage or honesty or patience or good will You do not exercise these qualities because you will be praised or paid for them. You exercise them for themselves . . . for the fineness that lies in them. They are a matter of spiritual grooming . . . of self-respect. You do not do them for profit, yet you do profit by them. You are always the greater for them, no matter what they may cost

And the same fact applies to love. It, too, is worth doing for itself Once, in one of the most dreadful dawnings I have ever known, I waited with a mother while her two sons were electrocuted. A broken husk of a thing she had known every bitterness that life could bring. Born into the most bestial surroundings, her boys had been wolves from birth. She, poor soul . . . utterly helpless in her poverty and ignorance . . . had, nevertheless, given the best she could. For years she had followed them, agonized for them, labored and lied for them, only to be rewarded with curses and blows Now she could no longer serve or save them. Her last hope was gone They must die.

There in my office we waited—my arms around her thin shoulders, her worn face sobbing on my heart Great gasps racked her . . . flung her, broken . . . racked her again Ghastly! The minutes crawled intolerably. Desperately I talked against time . . . soothing her . . . reading the old book.

Then suddenly, hideously — a great clock began to strike.

She leaped upright . . . shuddering . . . her blotted face moving slowly from right to left . . . awful comprehension in her staring eyes. They were going. No one had told her, but she knew. Coward that I was I tried not to look at her face. Then, amazingly, it happened The terror passed . . . the anguish dropped away. Slowly the gray lips parted . . . and the drowned eyes smiled.

"They're safe," she whispered. "My babies . . . I loved them so!"

Then she fell.

* * *

SHE loved them so! Never had that love brought her a day's peace or pride Always it had meant terror and agony. Yet, at the end she could forget all pain . . . remember only that she "loved them so!"

As, long ago, Another, tortured, cried, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do!"

LOVE, FOR LOVE'S SAKE, IS WORTH ALL THAT IT COSTS.

(Copyright, 1938)

Timely Editorial

Expense of Bad Faith.

For the last seven years the big navy and big army crowds have been increasing their domination of the Japanese government. The important liberals have been driven from public life or assassinated It is these aggressive and ruthless groups that carried out the raid on Manchuria and that are now attempting to conquer China. By their military and naval demands they have strained Japanese finances and brought the Japanese people close to the level of bare subsistence.

It is the big navy crowd that has scrapped the naval limitations agreement and that now refuses to let other naval powers know the plans for further construction Unfortunately the Japanese may force the United States, Great Britain and France to an expensive building program.

The excessive cost is part of the price of living in a world in which important powers have scrapped all standards of international good faith and have gone back to brute force as an instrument of national policy. There is one consoling aspect to the affair. The peace-loving nations can stand the expense much better than the Japanese.—Kansas City Times.

Keeping Step

The Fog That Conceals the Truth.

—By LESLIE EICHEL

A TEXTBOOK for would-be newspapermen arrived on my desk today. It is a thick book, formidable in appearance. One of its exhibits is a feature service I helped to produce. Yet, I wonder, I wonder.

I wonder whether textbooks ever will make a newspaperman.

The weakest men I know in the game studied journalism. And, of course, some of the best.* But the men who have the inherent ability to get at the truth and to present it fairly, whether it be in news or in pictures, are men who have worked their way up from the bottom by means of the hardest kind of experience.

DIFFICULT TODAY

Unbiased news, and news interpreted fairly, is difficult to obtain today. The man with truth and impartiality as his sole objective sometimes wonders how he ever can get at it.

And it is not because there is so much propaganda one way or another, but because the fog is thick, leaders are groping this way and that, and the mass of people, drawn by mirages hither and thither, and inflamed by nationalistic passions and blinded by superstitions and prejudices, wander far, far afield.

It is easy to be a snappy or caustic commentator, making a play on this or that personality, or repeating superstitions and prejudices in a new and succulent coating. But it is not easy to find the road and to learn where people are going. And it is still more difficult to state the conclusions in honesty and with impartiality.

There simply is no text book for that The training is far vaster, more brutal—it is contact with life itself, life without and soul within. In some men understanding comes sooner than in others. I am less blessed: I have been slow to mature; I wonder whether I ever shall mature sufficiently, have the comprehensive understanding of humanity so essential to men who write of events.

FEW ARE BLESSED

Few are blessed, of course. The talent necessary for worthwhile news reporting and editing comes to the chosen as talent comes to the good painter, composer, musician, surgeon Even with talent, the conception comes only with study and endeavor, and supreme honesty, a study that must begin in the earliest days and never ends.

There are honest men and capable men who find themselves unfitted Or, rather, their editors find them unfitted. They ought to step out.

They ought to step out in the interest of humanity, which can be led sadly astray by a bungling writer or editor. In this profession, their mischief can be uncalculable.

WE KNOW SO LITTLE

Alas, the best of us have such little knowledge that sometimes I shiver over the lines we write, the heads we conceive, the picture layouts we concoct.

A man came into the office today as the book lay on the desk. He laid down his product It was poor.

"Tell me," he said, "the truth"

He heard one man's approximation of him. If he ever will amount to anything in this business—or profession—he will overcome his present lack of ability and produce something worth while But in the hundreds and hundreds who have submitted material, I never have seen that occur, although I have hoped against hope. If the spark of genius does not shimmer in even a feeble glow there is no hope.

WHY THIS COLUMN?

Peculiar column, for a news commentator, isn't it?

Yes. It's this way—for a long, long time I have been badgered to "write something" or "make a speech" or "portray in pictures" "all about" the part of the profession in which I happen to be. I should rather go through the hardest kind of work than make a speech (I can't anyway) or speak with authority on this "profession." But this time I decided to go ahead, for that textbook, with a page that I edited as one of its chief exhibits, seems to me to be not quite the thing. Oh, it will do in college But there is nothing fundamental about it — nothing fundamental such as we, who try to penetrate this fog daily, meet.

Yet, it may be the best book of its kind.

But it gives no clue to meeting life headon—and retaining a clear head, nevertheless.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

"Newspaper Subsidy" Myth.

By GUS W. DYER
Professor, Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University.

President Roosevelt said recently "he believed the time had long since passed when the government should continue mail subsidies to newspapers and magazines." This statement of the president followed the recent attacks on the press by the postmaster general, and Associate Justice Black.

The president places an unusual meaning upon the word "subsidy." Subsidy as used in this country means a gift by the government in aid of the support and development of a general welfare enterprise that would of necessity lag or fail without such gift. The government is not subsidizing the newspapers of this country. The postoffice department is making a profit of many millions each year on the service it gives to newspapers and magazines.

When a railroad fixes a lower rate for commercial stone along its line in order to induce the owner to ship by rail and thereby make up a trainload for trains that must go anyway, the road is not subsidizing commercial stone, and no railroad man ever dreamed of calling this a subsidy. This is good business and profitable for the road.

An official representative of the postoffice department appeared before a joint committee of congress in 1925, and stated that if every newspaper was removed from the mails, there would be no appreciable saving to the government, because the postal establishment would have to be maintained for the public's benefit, whether it handled newspapers or not. The only item that could be saved by eliminating second class matter would be the direct cost of carrying newspapers, magazines, etc, on the trains.

It is estimated that only $10,000,000 a year could be saved in expense in eliminating all second class matter from the mails. But the government now receives in postage from second class mail over $23,000,000 a year. How long would it take the postoffice department to get out of the red by giving up over $23,000,000 in order to save $10,000,000?

If the attack of the president on a mythical newspaper "subsidy" is aimed at the big unfriendly city papers, it is in vain. The postal service of the government is too slow, costly, inefficient and out of date to meet the transporation demands of the modern-up-to-date newspaper. The writer lives nearly twenty miles out, and his morning paper is delivered before the postman turns over in his bed to take his last morning nap. Who expects efficient service from any sort of government ownership?

The hearings before a joint committee of congress in 1925 demonstrated that the costs of private agencies for transporting and distributing the mails were far less than those of the postoffice department for the same service.

A large Western afternoon paper distributed its entire rural circulation on the day of publication at an average cost of $1.25 per hundred pounds The cost of the same service through the mails was $1.92 per hundred pounds, and the delivery would have been made on the day following. A New York state morning paper was paying $283 a week for mail transportation. It changed to truck transportation and got the same service for $70 a week.

If the Postoffice Department would introduce private business efficiency in postal service, and reduce the rates on second class mail matter it might get back a large part of the business that it has lost, and thereby reduce its huge deficit.

Today it is estimated that over 90 per cent of the newspapers handled by the mails are for rural route delivery.

A substantial advance in rates on second class mail wouldn't affect seriously the city newspapers. But such an advance would inflict an unwarranted injury on the 10,000 individual publishers of small daily and weekly newspapers that are compelled to use the mails. These papers have a hard time to survive at best. Why destroy papers of this class and inflict an unwarranted injury on the rural population without any sort of justification?

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

'By the Skin of Your Teeth."

"By the skin of his teeth" should more properly be written or spoken "With the skin of his teeth."

The substitution of "by" for "with" is unjustified and attributable only to slovenly use of this famous quotation, which has destroyed its original significance.

The expression is taken from the Book of Job (xix: 20), perhaps the most ancient part of the Old Testament, where it was first used.

Job, having lost his health, his wealth, his wife and children—though we hope not in that order—cries out:

"I am escaped with the skin of my teeth."

So, the phrase indicated the extent or rather the complete lack of extent of worldly possessions; through the exchange of "by" for "with" the sense was altered to that of a close shave from great danger.

Everyday Poems

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

There Must Be Silences.

There must be silent days, without the hum of talk, without
A ceaseless flow of words each hour,
Of phrases flung about.

There must be silences to which
The tired heart can go,
For peace of quietude it needs
Is there to find and know.

There must be quiet hours for this—
Refreshment of the mind,
Renewal of the spirit: this
Indeed, we all must find.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

—By O. O. McINTYRE

THOUGHTS while strolling: Prince Obolensky's last name suggests gulping a fat oyster. Not many industrial giants look as mild mannered as Gerald Swope. Broadway's sprucest press agent: Arthur Levy. They can't scare Doris Duke Cromwell out of flying.

Suggestion for a World's Fair exhibit: Grover Whalen all duded up and under glass. A yesteryear stage toast leaving a snack bar at 9 a. m. That's why the lady is etc. With all that smacking around, Al Smith has not lost the geniality that made him so popular.

Busman's holiday stuff: John Perona always dines a half dozen friends nightly in his El Morocco establishment. Every newspaper fellow nurses a secret hope to have Dr. John Finley's health, vigour and ability at his age. And think of DeWolf Hopper's thundering voice at 70!

Memory: The aroma from the livery stable harness room. If you see a little colored fellow with a cocked derby out in the middle of the street talking things over with a policeman, that would be Bill Robinson. Intellectual repast of all ice-cream and cake, "Snow White."

New York's octogenarian man-about-town: Col. Creighton Webb Billy Rose's high-heeled shoes—a part of the Barnum build-up. Foot-note on nostalgia: No place in the night whirl today comparable to the Bustanoby Domino Room. Job I'd like: Skate sharpener for Sonja Henie.

Add vocational oddities: Clarence Straight is a born New Yorker and makes a living imitating animals and birds over the radio and off stage. He has never seen a prairie or been in a forest. He learned how to do all his imitations by loafing about the New York zoos.

No bump of curiosity is more pronounced than that of the so-called sophisticated New Yorker. In one of the better restaurants the other evening he came in escorting something easy on the eye, each in full evening regalia. He wore a thin gauzy pair of snow white gloves, which he did not remove during the meal. Captains were called to a dozen tables around to know the who and the why, and none knew. Probably a temporary skin malady but whatever it was it put the entire restaurant into a dither.

Dean Cornwell, magazine illustrator and sometimes muralist, is regarded by many artists as having the most classical profile among his guild He is delicate in build, a high blond with thin mustache of the same lemon-verbena blend. Then the expert in feminine beauty, James Montgomery Flagg, who is regarded—but will cuss those mentioning it in his presence—as one of the handsomest men in town. The man who drew the stunners on magazine covers so many years, the late Harrison Fisher, was a feminine head-turner wherever he went. And Ben Ali Haggin, who posed the beauts in the Ziegfeld living tableaux, is high up in the Masculine Pulchritude Stakes. And Bradshaw Crandell's no Bull Montana.

I have a revealing letter from a lady-shy gentleman of middle years who tells the why of his aloofness toward the women Says he: "I studiously avoid women who have 'it.' They tempt me to flirtation; knowing this, I avoid them. All are women who cannot hold a man. But for the moment are stimulating and in their presence I feel lifted and am at my best mentally. Yet it's a dangerous business. I avoid it as I would a stimulating drug. I had my lesson. Nothing scandalous, but something in way of a heartbreak for one I most cherish. Never again will I succumb to such a lure"

Every fellow, I suppose, remembers his first flirtation Not the castings of sheep eyes during adolescence, but around Booth Tarkington's Seventeen period. My rash of coquetry broke out on a local train between McArthur's Junction and Cincinnati, shortly after donning long trousers. A choice number got on at one of the stops and occupied a coach seat in front. After several gallant efforts, I finally cleared my throat to inquire: "Do you mind if I sit there with you?" Midway my voice fluted upward, suggesting a slate pencil drawn through clenched teeth. She sniffed, shifted her position and gazed stonily out the window. And I wandered to the smoker and almost emptied the water cooler—I was that feverish.

PERSONAL TAX COLLECTION SET

Books to Be Opened March 1 For Payments; Total Bill $300,000.

Collection of about $300,000 due in personal taxes in Richland county this year will begin March 1, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said today. Forms for listing personal property are available now at the auditor's office in the courthouse.

Books will be open for payment without penalty until April 1. The collection period will overlap the real estate collection by three weeks, since books for the payment of real estate and special assessment levies will not close until March 21.

Wolfe said the personal taxes due include about $170,000 on tangible property and nearly $130,000 on intangible possessions, such as stocks, bonds and mortgages

Property holders will be urged to pay their personal levies for the entire year for the sake of convenience, Wolfe said. It is permissable, however, to pay in two installments as in the case of real estate taxes

ADMITS CHARGE

Boy, 18, Held to Grand Jury Under $1,000 Bond in Auto Theft.

Vaughn Watkins, 18, of 102 South Foster street, arraigned in municipal court yesterday on charges of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent pleaded guilty and was bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond.

Watkins was arrested by police following the recovery of an automobile abandoned on Springmill street, which he is accused of stealing from a parking lot on Park avenue west Wednesday night.

Two words with a magic sound are treasure trove! To the many people, young and old, who relish such tales, "Hunting Hidden Treasures" by Harold T. Wilkins, will prove a veritable gold mine of such stories

Mr. Wilkins tells of buccaneers, pirates, tombs of dead kings, treasure hidden in castles, wells, gardens, and galleons. His book covers many centuries and brings the stories up-to-date with the Titanic. He also mentions the locality of more than one treasure cache still to be found. In short —he holds out plenty of hope for the adventurous!

Another book of the same type is Ralph D. Paine's "The Book of Buried Treasure" "Being a true history of the gold, Jewels, and plate of Pirates, galleons, etc., which are sought for to this day."

AUTOISTS FINED

Two Galion Men Plead Guilty To Exceeding Speed Limit.

Lewis Rinehart, R D 1, Galion, arraigned on a charge of careless and reckless driving, pleaded guilty yesterday in municipal court and was fined $20 and costs. Rinehart was charged by Capt T M. Bell and Patrolman Claire Kyler with driving on Park avenue west at 55 miles an hour.

Pleading guilty to a charge of speeding at 45 miles an hour on West Fourt street M F Gwinner, Galion, was fined $10 and costs

Wife of Lifer In Ohio Pen Found Dead as Children Return From School.

(By Associated Press)

LORAIN—Authorities hoped to obtain today from friends and relatives of Mrs. Mary Wallace information which might provide a clew in the 31-year-old mother's baffling slaying.

William, her 13-year-old son, returned from school yesterday with his three sisters and discovered Mrs. Wallace's body, fiendishly beaten and slashed, in a bedroom of the family's poverty-stricken four room house.

Take Fingerprints.

"We are up against a stone wall," said police investigators after photographing the gruesome scene and taking fingerprints. They said robbery evidently was not the motive.

The woman's head was battered and her throat cut. Under the bed police found a stained hammer head; a blood-smeared butcher knife was in the kitchen.

The body lay near the bed, clad only in underwear.

Overturned furniture and a shattered window indicated Mrs. Wallace fought her assailant fiercely.

Coroner S. C. Ward, returning a murder verdict, said the woman was slain shortly before noon.

The victim was the wife of Arthur Wallace, serving a life sentence in Ohio penitentiary for participating in the murder of Norman Watte, operator of a "magic" devices shop, on Jan. 28, 1931. Three companions of Wallace also were sentenced for the slaying, two for life and another from seven to 20 years for manslaughter.

Murders Not Connected.

Police Lieut. John Meister said he doubted a connection existed between the woman's death and the "magic shop" murder.

Mrs. Wallace supported her four children — William, Ruth, 14, Aloha, 12, and Bessie, 8—since her husband's incarceration by doing general housework or washing.

The weeping children were taken to the home of Mrs. Bessie Boskey, 37, one of Mrs. Wallace's three sisters.

Physicians Find 137-Pound Tumor In Woman's Body

TOLEDO —(AP)— A 137-pound tumor, one of the largest known to the medical fraternity, was removed from the body of Mrs. Laura Lenzer, who died Tuesday night in Maybee, Mich., north of here, it was revealed today by undertakers.

The tumor was removed by Dr. M. S. Vaughn, physician of Maybee, and Dr. H. L. Nichols, assisted by Undertakers Henry Leidel, of Maybee, and Gust Beam, of Monroe, Mich.

Without the tumor, Mrs. Lenzer weighed 75 pounds. Her average weight was from 210 to 212 pounds.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lenzer will be held today in Cincinnati, O.

PEN FUGITIVE 17 YEARS RETURNED

Convict Who Fled Stone Quary To Complete Sentence.

COLUMBUS —(INS)—Hunted by authorities for nearly 17 years, ever since he escaped from the state stone quarry, Charles Stanfield surveyed the confines of a cell again at Ohio penitentiary today.

Stanfield entered the penitentiary April 3, 1921, and the following July escaped while working at the quarry. He was arrested Wednesday in New Orleans. Warden J. C. Woodard said Stanfield was serving a 1 to 20 year sentence for shooting with intent to wound when he fled the stone quarry.

"He'll lose two years for escaping, which means he'll have to serve another three years before he's eligible for parole," Woodard said.

SNOW EXPECTED TO FOLLOW RAIN

Colder Weather Predicted For Tonight and Saturday.

A temperature drop which began before noon today may bring snow to the Mansfield area tonight and Saturday, the weather bureau's forecast said.

The mercury stood at 51 degrees at noon today, five degrees under yesterday's high of 56, which made the day the warmest Feb. 17 since 1927. The reading was the same on that date 11 years ago.

The temperature range during the past 24 hours was only nine degrees, from 51 to 56.

GIRL SCOUTS ASK $1,000

Due to a typographical error, a story in Thursday's News-Journal said the Girl Scout council had filed an application with the Community Fund asking a minimum of $6,000 to finance a tentative six-month program. The article should have stated $1,000. The application asks that the Girl Scouts be admitted to the fund as a participating agency. The News-Journal takes this means of correcting the error.

Jury 'Acquits' Dog In $5,000 Suit

BOISE, Idaho—(AP)—A jury that included eight dog owners vindicated Sport, a brown and white pointer, of charges he bit a two-year-old child.

The jury found the child's father was not entitled to $5,000 damages from Sport's owner, Jess W. Hammer. Witnesses for Hammer said the child struck Sport with a stick.

thinking that the dog warden can't personally interview every dog in town on his or her sex or physical potentialities, "just say that"—thus saving $2.

"Just as if," sniffs the purps, "anybody with good sense wouldn't know that 223 mothers couldn't turn out all the new puppies in this town each year."

In addition to these libelous declarations, a lot of owners haven't even troubled to buy their dog tags this year. The time limit is past and there is a fine of $1 now for every license issued. Warden Miller has already started his rounds of the county, looking for unregistered Fidos and Fifis.

Owners without licenses will be given a week's warning, and then if they fail to obtain them, poor Fido and Fifi must go the way of all unlicensed dog flesh.

While there is no way of checking upon the entire dog population of the county, 6,000 were registered last year, which, Miller believes, represented about two-thirds of the actual number, and there probably is that many this year, if not more—since birth control has not yet gone into effect, owners to the contrary.

PAYS $25 FINE

Chiropractor Declines to Fight Medical Board Charge.

Declining to contest a charge of advertising as practitioner of medicine without a certificate, one of three Mansfield chiropractors arrested Monday on complaint of the state medical board was fined $25 and costs in municipal court today.

Flo A. Morirs, 109 North Mulberry street, through her attorney entered a plea of nolo contenders, which subjected her to conviction without admitting guilt to the charge. The charge was filed by Frank Dorsey, investigator for the state medical board.

Court records show that Mrs. Morris was cited on a similar charge in May, 1936 and paid a fine of $25 and costs.

Hearing of charges against two other chiropractors has been set for next week.

FUNERAL TODAY

BUCYRUS—Last rites were held in Tiffin today for Harry J. Keller, 55, former Lykens township farmer who died at his home in Tiffin Wednesday of a heart attack. Burial was made in Bloomville cemetery.

Mr. Keller lived in Lykens township until four years ago when he retired from farming and moved to Tiffin.

His widow is the only close relative surviving.

A Farmer's Diary

Feb. 17.

IT RAINED and drizzled almost all day. I heard it patter on the roof and beat against the window pane. I listened to it as it entered myriad crevices in the wet earth. I felt it run off my hat, down over my face and neck.

Took a short cut across an open field, and got into the mud. The soft top soil balled up upon my shoes, until they were nearly twice their size. I stepped upon tufts of weeds and grass, whenever possible, but this did not aid me much. After some exertion, I reached the house, my feet still weighted down.

My wife met me at the top of the back porch steps. She had a broom in her hand. She wondered, aloud, why on earth I had trudged across an open field on a night like this.

I planted first one heavy foot, and then the other, upon the step before her. "This mud you frown upon, I said in my best manner, is full of life and power. Think of the countless microbes or germs of life I bear upon the thin soles of these shoes! Perhaps on this left foot is a great Napoleon's dust, or that of an imperial Caesar or a Cromwell! Perhaps upon my right foot I bear the clay of Sitting Bull, Little Crow or Great Tecumseh!"

My wife give me one pitying glance, from head to toe . . . and it was not what she said, so much as the way she said it . . . "Sweet shades of Aunt Sopheha!"

Meekly I untied my shoes, placed them beside the door, and walked through the kitchen into the living room in my stocking feet. — By C. A. B.

JAPS CAPTURE CHINESE CITY

Take Last Important Town on Peiping-Hankow Rail Line.

SHANGHAI — (AP) — Japanese troops were reported today to have fought through a 20-mile zone of heavy fortifications and captured Sinsiang, last important Chinese Peiping-Hankow railway stronghold north of the Yellow river.

News of the Japanese advance on the northwestern corner of the Lunghai corridor separating Japanese-conquered areas of north and central China came as foreign sources asserted the Japanese high command was being changed.

General Iwane Matsui, who came out of retirement last August to take command of all Japanese forces in the Shanghai area, was said to have been recalled to Japan.

SHERIFF QUIZZES THEFT SUSPECT

Says Ex-Inmate Won't Be Returned Unless Freed at Dayton.

Back from Dayton where he questioned Carlton Zeiters, 27, of Shelby, suspected of the theft of 15 electric sweepers in Mansfield, Sheriff E. P. Long said today that Zeiters would not be returned here unless Montgomery county courts fail to convict him.

Zeiters, who has served two years in the Mansfield reformatory for burglary, confessed to Dayton police the theft of a dozen sweepers in southern Ohio cities, including several in Dayton.

Long said he would file a detainer against Zeiters to set the stage for his return to Richland county in the event he is released at Dayton. One of the sweepers stolen here was recovered at Dayton and returned here by Long who said officers were having difficulty locating the others because the owners had not furnished them with serial numbers of the machines.

The court was presided over by J. Leo Hartmann, chairman; M. P. Wolcott, W. J. Bissman, L. A. Ott, C. I. Kimmel and C. G. Silcott, assisted by Eagle Scouts Ralph Arlin, Wilton Morkel and Clifford Hartnett.

A crowd of about 175 parents and friends attended the court, filling the lodge hall to capacity. Following the court, Floyd Dent, area scout executive, was presented with a pen and pencil set as a birthday gift from the scoutmasters' training school.

An area court of honor will be held Thursday, Feb. 24, at the Elks' home. The ranks of Eagle, Life and Star scouts will be awarded at this court.

400 High School Singers To Be In Bucyrus Festival

BUCYRUS—Approximately 400 singers from six surrounding cities will be entertained by the Bucyrus High school glee club, Thursday, March 10, when the glee clubs will offer a festival and program to which the public has been invited.

Ellis E. Snyder, director of Capital university chapel choir, will be the guest director and conduct the massed clubs in several selections. Solos, duets and ensembles also will augment the program.

Both afternoon and evening events are being planned.

Bucyrus clubs also are rehearsing for their own spring musical to be presented Friday night, April 29.

SEEKS OUSTER OF FAIR BOARD

Duffy Acts After Citizens Protest 'Perpetual' Officers.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy asked Gov. Martin L. Davey today for authority to remove directors of the Lawrence County Agricultural society.

Duffy said citizens had complained to him that the directors were perpetuating themselves in office "for the sole and only purpose of drawing a measly stipend each year."

He declared that the organization had not held a fair for several years and that its only revenues were rentals on the fairgrounds and that the directors would "lease to any one for any purpose."

RESIGNS POST

BUCYRUS—The resignation of R. O. Perrott, sales tax district manager for the last four years, was announced today by Perrott, who leaves his post to return to his former line of business in the road machinery field.

Perrott will become associated with the Rome Grader and Manufacturing company at Rome, N. Y. He was secretary and assistant manager of the American Clay Machinery company from 1901 until 1928.

RUMORS FLY ON ITALO-GERMAN MILITARY PACT

Reported Alliance Including Austria, Hungary Creates Tension In France.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Reports of an impending military alliance linking Germany, Italy, Austria and Hungary threw France into a fever of agitation today. H. R. Knickerbocker reveals in the following graphic dispatch from Paris.)

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
(INS Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1938)

PARIS—The report that Mussolini and Hitler are planning announcement of a military alliance struck the French government today like a physical blow.

"My God, is that the answer? Yes, that would explain everything," exclaimed a French political personage of highest station today when informed of the report that Hitler might make the announcement in his broadcast Sunday.

But hitherto the French government had no positive information and considering the reputation of their secret service they were inclined to take some comfort in the reflection that if it had been true, they would have heard of it earlier.

Conducts Survey.

After canvassing all available sources in Paris and Vienna, International News Service learns that every authority considers the report entirely possible but must declare it improbable.

They especially consider it unlikely that Hitler would broadcast such an announcement Sunday as this would be "too crude."

What appeals most strongly, however, is the fact that Mussolini has for a long time wanted a military alliance with Hitler and never could get it. But now, by surrendering or seeming to surrender Austria, Mussolini has paid such a large price he could now be expected to receive something equally big in return.

An Italo-German military alliance would be precisely large enough to reward and explain Mussolini's sacrifice, which was the greatest of his career.

Mussolini wants the alliance in order to bring more pressure on his Grandiose campaign to drive the British out of the Mediterranean.

Hitler hitherto has refused. First, because the Berlin-Rome axis has been flexible enough to use as a diplomatic weapon to force one concession after another from France and England. The best example of this was the way it worked to paralyze both London and Paris in the Austrian affair.

Second, because a formal military alliance lacking all flexibility would tie Hitler irrevocably to Mussolini and force England and France and possibly Russia into a similar inflexible pact, thus dividing Europe incorrigibly into armed camps without even the possibility which though small, still exists, of any solution but a war.

Considered Liability.

Thirdly, Hitler until now has rejected the alliance because the German general staff opposed it on the grounds of their low opinion of Italian war power.

German generals made no secret in private conversation that they considered Italy a military liability. But a brand new situation was created by Hitler's recent army purge which cleaned out the group, headed by former Commander-in-General Werner Von Fritsch, which looked with disfavor upon Italy.

Effectiveness of the purge was proved when Hitler used his army as a threat to obtain Austrian Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg's submission.

It is also important that Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering favors an Italian alliance. Goering is now the highest ranking officer in the army. Likewise significant is that Joachim Von Ribbentrop, still smarting from his cool treatment as ambassador to London, is now German foreign minister.

SUMMONS EXPERTS TO TESTIFY TODAY ON BIGGER NAVY BILL

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The house naval affairs committee met today under an anti-filibuster rule to hear an editorial writer, an author and a radio commentator testify on foreign implications of the bigger-navy bill.

Three witnesses were invited as "outstanding experts on foreign affairs" at the request of Rep. Henry C. Luckey (D.-Neb.) to give their views on President Roosevelt's billion-dollar naval expansion program calling for 47 fighting ships.

They were Maurtiz Hallgren, former member of the editorial staff of the Baltimore Sun, Dr. Thomas H. Healy of Georgetown university, and Boake Carter. Two others, Lester P. Barlow, inventor of aerial bombs, and Benjamin Marsh of the People's lobby, also were scheduled.

Rear Admiral William G. Dubose, chief of naval construction, who was still on the stand when the hearings adjourned yesterday, was excused until Monday, after testifying that the additional fighting and auxiliary naval vessels authorized in the pending bill would cost more than $1,000,000,000, exclusive of the 1,000 airplanes also contemplated. Previously the cost of the entire program had been estimated at $800,000,000.

Today's witnesses were limited to 10 minutes each for making statements. Each committee member was restricted to two minutes of questioning. The committee imposed this "gag" on itself and its witnesses yesterday after Chairman Carl Vinson, D., Ga., suggested there would be time to hear only technical experts from the navy.

GIVES ADDRESS

Shelby Banker Tops Program at Bucyrus Meeting.

BUCYRUS—William B. Kuhn, Shelby banker and district educational committee chairman, outlined a three-point educational and public relations program in the interest of good banking at the regular quarterly meeting of the Crawford County Bankers' association at the Elks' club Wednesday night.

Timely newspaper items; speeches in schools and public gatherings and education of bank employes were pointed out by Kuhn as major methods of achieving improvement in the public relations field.

Kuhn also endorsed educational programs in rural and city schools to acquaint the public with banking problems and the importance of banks to a community.

Ninety-three bankers and bank associates of the county attended the meeting which was preceded by a dinner.

SERVICES HELD

SHELBY—Funeral services for Mrs. Amelia Funk, 73, former Shelby resident, who died Monday at Orlando, Fla., were held today at the Barkdull funeral home with Rev. W. W. Ralph, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating. Burial was made in Greenlawn cemetery, Plymouth.

PLAN PROGRAM

SHELBY—Plans are being completed this week for a special patriotic program to be presented Feb. 24 at the high school auditorium by the American Legion auxiliary.

FOOD MARKETS OFFER VARIETY

South Furnishes Much of Produce; Few Changes In Prices Recently.

There has been little change in the price of green vegetables and fruits in the last three or four months, except that citrus fruits—grapefruit, oranges, tangerines—are considerably cheaper, while beans, green, yellow and limas, have climbed again.

The green leafy vegetables, such as spinach, kale and broccoli, are reasonable in price. Head lettuce is slightly cheaper than it was two months ago.

Mansfield markets on Saturday will offer a good variety, which come from the southern states. From Texas comes dandelions, and from Florida sun ripened tomatoes, which generally have a better flavor than the hothouse variety which is also available.

Radishes, green onions and cucumbers are more in demand now than they have been, and most of the markets have them. Brussel sprouts, cauliflower, and egg plant are also among the vegetables that may be found at neighborhood stores as well as the downtown markets.

Mushrooms are comparatively cheap and plentiful. A new feature this week will be mustard greens with the green seeds, which are something like broccoli and which are becoming a favorite dish.

The fruit stalls will have pineapple and strawberries for the Sunday menu, with watercress and fresh mint offered at several places. New grapes from South America will be a feature, as will new honeydew melons.

INCOME TAX IN NUTSHELL

NO. 22

Deduction for Contributions.

Charitable contributions and gifts made by an individual are deductible within limitations provided by the revenue act. The organization to which the gift is made must meet several tests. The corporation, trust, community chest, fund, or foundation must be operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals; and if a substantial part of its activities is carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation, it fails to pass the tests. No part of the organization's income may insure to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual.

Contributions made to a missionary fund, church building fund, and for the benefit of other activities of the church are deductible. Pew rents, assessments, and dues paid to churches are regarded as contributions. Gifts to a corporation or association organized or devoted to the advancement of learning are deductible.

Gifts to an individual are not deductible, but if made to a charitable organization, as defined by the revenue act, may be deducted even though the organization distributes funds among the individual beneficiaries.

Contributions made to the United State, any State or Territory or political subdivision thereof, such as a city or town, or the District of Columbia, for exclusively public purposes, are deductible; for example, a gift of real estate to a city to be used perpetually as a public park is deductible. Also allowable are contributions to the special fund for vocational rehabilitation, to posts or organizations of war veterans and their auxiliaries in the United States, and to lodges, if used for religious, scientific, educational, literary, or charitable purposes.

In general, the deduction is limited to 15 per cent of the net income, exclusive of the contributions

Corporate contributions are deductible when made to or for the use of a domestic corporation, domestic trust, or domestic community chest, fund, or foundation which meets the same tests as those made for recipients of individual contributions, but in the case of contributions or gifts to a trust, chest, fund, or foundation, only if the contributions or gifts are to be used within the United States. Deduction of corporate contributions is limited to 5 per cent of the net income, exclusive of the contributions.

College Seniors Prefer Men Tall, Dark, Handsome

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Charlie McCarthy, the 2 b. 4 "Great Lover", is a favorite of Hunter College seniors, who prefer tall, dark and handsome men. The tastes were made public in a questionnaire answered by 100 seniors.

Other qualifications of the ideal man indicated by various students were: A sense of humor, wealth and intelligence.

To please everyone he also would have to be practical, faithful, ethical, moral, broadminded, fluent in speech, "friendly but with principles," and capable of "appreciating a woman's brain."

More than one-third of the class chose President Roosevelt as the greatest living man and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt as the greatest living woman. Prof. Albert Einstein took second place, and Margaret Sanger and Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek also had high scores. A few students mentioned Arturo Toscanini and Pope Pius XI, and one voted for Josef Stalin.

SEEKS BIDS ON SANITARY SEWER

City to Accept Proposals on 736-foot Project Until March 7.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the secretary of the board of control until noon March 7, for the construction of a sanitary sewer between Andover road and Yale drive, Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert announced today.

Specifications call for the construction of 736 feet of eight-inch sanitary sewer in an easement between Andover road and Yale drive, from Stewart lane to inlet No. 10505.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $50 as surety that if the proposal is accepted, a contract will be entered into, Styert said.

CONDUCTS RITES

Mother Given Suspended Sentence, Fails to Send Son to School.

Convicted in county juvenile court on a charge of failing to send her 16-year-old son to school, Mrs. Mary Schinsky, 15 Front street, yesterday was sentenced to six months in the Toledo workhouse by Judge C. J. Anderson.

The sentence was suspended on condition that the defendant keep the boy in school until he obtains a working permit.

The youth, who attends St. Peter's parochial school, had been absent since Jan. 9, despite repeated warnings, according to A. H. Wood, attendance officer, who filed the charge.

Seven Rescued From Water-Filled Mine, One Drowned

WORKMEN FIND PALS SAFE IN ROCK SHELTER

Two Escape Deluge Set Off By Blast, Reach Surface to Summon Help.

(By Associated Press)

HAZELTON, Pa. — Seven of eight men trapped by a rush of water in an anthracite mine at nearby Jeanesville were found today, uninjured. The eighth was dead.

Officials of the Lehigh Valley company said the dead man was Paul Kuritz, 40, of Hazelton.

Rescuers pushing through tons of debris during the night found his body buried in mud piled up by the water that rushed into the mine yesterday from a pool left as a result of surface mining.

The others were safe in a "rock hole" high above the reach of the waters.

All Uninjured.

All said they were uninjured and "felt fine." They said they would go home and not to a hospital.

Two men rode to safety yesterday on the face of the wall of water which deluged the mine.

One of them, Bernard McAlarney, said:

"I had just fired off two sticks of dynamite to make a hitch in the bottom rock for a set of timber."

Then the deluge came.

It poured down with a roar from a break in the top of the mine. It rushed through the tunnels. It rose toward the roof. The swirling flood bore McAlarney and George D. Schutter, assistant superintendent, both of Hazelton, to a point of safety.

Then the waters, coming from a "stripping" basin above, subsided, falling away through the mine's natural drainage system.

McAlarney and Schutter hurried to the surface—drenched but uninjured.

The water separated them, they said, from two others working at the same point in the mine—Kuritz and Michael Olexa, 35, of Hazelton.

The two survivors gave the alarm, then returned to the scene of the flood, 500 feet underground, with a hastily-recruited rescue squad.

2,000 Robberies Give Canton Man Chance To Boast

CANTON—(AP)—Ezra Eddy, 35, single, was known among his friends as a modest man who talked very little.

But police have a different version. When they picked him up on a suspicion charge in connection with a robbery Eddy very frankly and a bit boastfully confessed to 2,000 robberies in Canton since 1926.

Detectives at first discounted his story but as he listed additional "jobs" and told what he had taken they concluded that they had the solution to at least several hundred robberies.

Eddy, police say, worked alone and confined his activities largely to residential robberies.

U. S. 'Flying Fortresses' Roar Over Andes

Up and Down THE STREET

Mrs. William Burkholder, 119 Rowland avenue, reports the return to Mansfield of a family that had gone south for the winter—the family of martins that occupy the birdhouse in the Burkholder yard each year. She believes this is an unusually early return, the record before this year being March 17. The martins are among the first to leave in the fall and usually come back late in the spring.

* * *

The spelling of the word February has trapped another "victim," but this time it wasn't the puzzled schoolboy. In the window of a North Main street store is a large placard announcing a February sale. In composing the sign, the author omitted the first elusive "r" and left it just a "Febuary sale," which, after all, sounds like the way it ought to be spelled.

* * *

The majority of Mansfield's professional men are not only better than average golfers but also quite capable paddle wielders, take it from Don Cram, Y. M. C. A. physical director. About half of last year's entrants in the 'Y' ping pong tournament were doctors and dentists, and this winter's event promises to draw another big entry from their ranks. The event this year even has a physician as chairman—Dr. D. A. Weir.

* * *

Eugene Weinberger, violinist and former conductor of the Mansfield Symphony orchestra, is elated over receiving a copy of the "forbidden" Schumann concerto for violin, which was published only a few months ago after having been kept from the public for more than 84 years. The concerto is published only in Germany and the copy was sent to Weinberger by his brother Emil, who lives in Brasov, Roumania. It is the only violin concerto the great composer ever wrote and was finished at Dusseldorf, Germany on Oct. 3, 1853, but Schumann forbade its publication then or at any time after his death. There has been considerable furore over its publication, and there are few copies of it in America.

ELECTED HEAD OF CIVIC MUSIC

Rev. Roller New President of Association; Campaign to Open March 21.

Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will serve during the coming year as president of the Mansfield Civic Music association, and the campaign for members of the organization for its second year will be staged next month.

The campaign dates was set last night at the re-organization meeting of the association. It was decided to open the campaign March 21, and to seek a membership of 1,000. The association had 750 members this year, its first.

Rev. Roller will succeed Superintendent W. L. Miller as president. Also elected were Mrs. Edward Gibson and Mrs. Paul W. Williams, vice presidents, Mrs. Paul F. Cropper, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. E. Wygant, recording secretary, and Albert Arnold, treasurer.

Three members of the association were elected to the executive committees. They were Miss Florence McDonald, John S. Jones and Rev. G. E. Swoyer. The committee membership includes, in addition to these three, the association's officers and chairman of the various committees, yet to be named.

Arnold, who served as treasurer this year, reported that the first season closed with a balance of $225 after all bills had been paid.

HOLD RITES SATURDAY

SHELBY—Funeral services for Frank Nelson, 67, former Shelby resident, who died Tuesday at Detroit, will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday at the Shelby Settlement church with Rev. N. T. Bouschere officiating. Burial will be in the Parish cemetery.

DIES AT AGE 82

Michael Gabor Came to City From Hungary.

Michael Gabor, 82, of 340 Third avenue, a native of Hungary, died early today at his home following a lingering illness. Mr. Gabor was born Sept. 3, 1855, and had been a resident of Mansfield for 35 years.

Surviving are his wife, Regina; a daughter, Mrs. Michael Papas of Omaha, Neb.; six sons, Martin and George of Mansfield, Anton, Joseph, Carl and Adolph of Chicago, 23 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. He was a member of St. Peter's Catholic church.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Monday at St. Peter's Catholic church in charge of Rev. R. C. Goebel. Burial will be in Mansfield Catholic cemetery. The body will remain at the Wappner funeral home until time of services.

N. Y. TO BURY PROHIBITION'S NO. ONE 'RUM SNOOPER' TODAY

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—Izzy Einstein, the "man of a thousand disguises," who was known throughout the country as "Prohibition Agent No. 1," will be buried in Mount Zion cemetery.

The colorful, 57-year-old former federal agent, who provided daily comic relief for prohibition enforcement from 1920 through 1928, died yesterday. He is survived by his widow and four sons, Joseph, Charles, Edwards and Albert.

To the government, Einstein was Isadore Einstein, prohibition agent, whose salary was $3,600 a year. To the public, he was Izzy, a short, fat man who had a different disguise for every day, and who counted his victims at more than 4,900 when he retired with his partner, Moe Smith, to enter the insurance business.

Izzy called his method the "Einstein theory of rum snooping." It was his custom to enter a speakeasy, lean over the bar and whisper to the bartender:

"Have you heard the latest story?"

"No," the bartender would reply. "Go ahead."

"You're pinched," Izzy would whisper.

Izzy posed on various occasions as an opera singer, college student in plus fours, street cleaner, street car conductor, Polish laborer, German immigrant, fiddler, grave digger, farmer, iceman, fisherman and football player. Once he disguised 10 fellow-agents as a football team, smeared mud on their faces and led them into a big speakeasy near a football field.

"Season's over; we can drink," Izzy shouted.

Whereupon the drinks arrived and another bartender heard "the latest story."

WIDOW, 83, DIES

Mrs. Matilda Ettinger Lived In Mansfield 70 Years.

Mrs. Matilda Ettinger, 83, of 557 West Third street, widow of Frank M. Ettinger, died at her home Thursday following a month's illness. Mrs. Ettinger, a resident of Mansfield for 70 years, was born in Bethlehem, O., July 29, 1854.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. George Perry and Mrs. Grace M. Long of Cleveland, Mrs. R. E. Miller of Detroit and Mrs. C. H. Sigler of Mansfield; two sons, Russell of Detroit and F. C., of Mansfield; two sisters, Mrs. Sophia Moorhead of Alameda, Cal., and Mrs. Elizabeth Peters of Los Angeles; two brothers, John Bowers of Toledo and W. H. Bowers of Storm Lake, Mich., 10 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. She was a member of the First Lutheran church.

The body was removed to the Jones funeral home where services will be held at 3 p. m. Saturday with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

PLANES ON LAST LEG OF HOP TO BUENOS AIRES

One of Six Craft Delayed By Mechanical Trouble; Reach Goal Late Today.

BULLETIN

BUENOS AIRES — (INS) — Shattering all United States-Argentina air records, five American army "flying fortresses" roared triumphantly over Buenos Aires today and came to rest at El Palomar field. The planes began landing at 10:55 a. m., EST.

(By United Press)

BUENOS AIRES—Five "flying fortresses" of the U. S. army sped across the Andes mountains today on a 2,300 mile non-stop flight from Lima, Peru to Buenos Aires — the last leg on a "good will" journey from Langley Field, Va.

Almost 1,500 miles behind them was the sixth plane of the Armada which had been forced to remain at Lima because of propellor trouble. The plane's crew worked through the night to complete repairs and took off for Buenos Aires at 6:25 a. m., eight hours and 25 minutes behind their fellow aviators.

The five huge bombers left Lima at 10:55 p. m. (EST) yesterday. They had arrived there at 4.29 p. m. (EST) after a 2,700-mile non-stop flight from Miami, Fla.

800 Miles to Go.

At 6 a. m. (EST), they were 100 miles north of Valpariso, Chile—only 800 miles from their goal. Their speed had been reduced from 200 to 172 miles per hour.

Lieut. Col. Robert Olds, commanding the squadron, led the four-motored, 22-ton ships over the regular route of Pan-American Grace Airways as far as Valparaiso, Chile, and then turned east across the Andes.

With favorable weather, Olds believed the squadron would arrive today to salute, in the name of the United States, President Elect Roberto M. Ortiz, who will be inaugurated in office on Sunday.

Olds delayed the departure from Lima so as to be able to start across the Andes in daylight. The route has not been flown before by these pilots, and a night crossing of the mountains was considered too hazardous.

The fliers probably will remain here two days. The return flight may include an overnight stop at Santiago, Chile. From there the squadron will proceed to Panama via Lima to await orders from the U. S. war department.

RETAIN POSTS

Salvation Army Officers and Board Re-elected.

Officers and executive board members who served the Mansfield Salvation Army last year, were re-elected last night at the first quarterly meeting of the year.

The officers are Harry E. Hawley, chairman; John S. Jones, vice chairman; and Mrs. V. H. Lodde, secretary-treasurer. The board is made up of Rev. Charles Sheriff, C. C. Beelman, Arthur Wood, Charles Hoffman, Dr. C. R. Damron, George H. Smith, Mrs. John Pierce, Mrs. Carlton Fernyak, R. M. Caiene and Miss Emma E. McDaniel, in addition to the officers.

Plans for the observance of the 1st anniversary of the opening of the Salvation Army in Mansfield, were discussed. The Army came to this city in November, 1897, and the anniversary will be celebrated the first week of that month this year.

The next quarterly meeting will be held April 7, when Col. Edward Underwood of New York City will be a guest.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

IT IS NOT EASY to be sure about the stability of Mr. Roosevelt's course, because of his well recognized disposition when moving in one direction, to find some means of reassuring those who want him to move in the other. However, there are a number ot reasons for thinking that at the moment the so-called "conservative influences" are in the ascendancy at the White House and his left wing advisers not being listened to as lovingly as before.

If there were any guarantee that this would last until business could regain its health it would be a very encouraging sign. In any event, the reasons for the distinctly conciliatory tone of recent presidential conversations are interesting and the complete discontinuation of the effort, at first so well received in the White House, to impress the people with the silly idea that businessmen had deliberately brought about the business slump, is significant.

ACTUALLY, the abandonment of that utterly false and hollow argument was due to the clarity with which a series of events have forced upon the president the conclusion that, however he may have been cheered in the past for his attacks, there is no present support, either in congress or in the country, for a belligerent attitude toward business. Nothing could be clearer than that neither the "crusading spirit" for a "reform program" would be popular with the people as a whole, whose chief desire is to end the depression, who are beginning to feel apprehensive and are in no mood to be responsive to tirades against industry or new experiments sponsored by his anti-capitalistic intimates.

These things were made plain in a number of ways. One, for instance, was the extreme flatness with which the speeches of the Messrs. Ickes and Jackson fell. Another was the surprising unanimity with which the "little business" men saw eye to eye with the big business men, urged repeal of the same taxes and with far more candor asked the administration to "stop flitting around, light somewhere and give us a chance." Even more significant, however, is the present position of the labor leaders in whose behalf he has spent four years belaboring business. On one side we have John L. Lewis of the Committee for Industrial Organization in agreement with Thomas Lamont, the Morgan partner, visiting the White House and urging the same conservative things. On the other hand, William Green of the American Federation of Labor makes a vigorous speech urging repeal of "unsound taxes," insists that capital be allowed to make a "reasonable profit," and being commended by businessmen generally for his "patriotic attitude." In brief, both Lewis and Green openly recognize that the fortunes of labor are linked with the fortunes of business; that the former cannot flourish when the later is flat.

CONSIDERING these things, it is not difficult to understand why from the White House word went out that Mr. Roosevelt has a "new economic program" especially designed to reassure and help business. Various rather thin details are given, including a tentative indorsement of Senator Bulkley's grandiose dream of a "great national system of self-liquidating super highways," if they can be made self-liquidating. The way the suggestions were put out really committed Mr. Roosevelt to nothing. He may drop them entirely as he has other national policies enunciated at his press conference, or he may follow with various legislative proposals preceded by a "mild message on monopoly." Far more helpful than any ingenious proposal, no matter how well intentioned, would be a general conviction that the governmental heckling and administration attacks were over, not temporarily but permanently; that the effort to regulate and control business had ended; that the crippling taxes would be removed; that the crusaders and reformers were no longer in the saddle and that the administration finally had "lit."

IF THE PRESIDENT can inculcate a conviction about those things, he need have no "new economic program." None is really needed. What is needed is faith in the sincerity of the administration's friendliness and a restoration of free enterprise. That is all. If Mr. Roosevelt will give the country these two things, and it is certainly within his power to give them, he need do nothing else.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Movie research departments, which bother themselves about the most insignificant details, generally keep hands off one vital film component: the movie kiss.

They made quite a fuss about the way Sigrid Gurie should react to Gary Cooper's Occidental kiss in "Marco Polo" but that was a Chinese exception. Miss Gurie, as the Oriental princess, wasn't supposed ever to have been kissed that way before.

Ordinarily, the researchers don't specify how a kiss should be delivered and receipted for—even in period pictures. Directors and players, too, take it for granted that the kiss is timeless, that Helen of Troy, Cleopatra, Maid Marian of Robin Hood's time and Joan Crawford in her most modern roles should react the same way.

Michael Curtiz, directing kiss scenes between Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland in the "Robin Hood" picture, simply rehearsed them in their lines, placed them in a romantic setting, and left them to their own devices. DeMille did the same with Fredric March and Franciska Gaal in "The Buccaneer," and William Wyler made no hard-and-fast rules for the kissing scenes of Bette Davis and Henry Fonda in "Jezebel," period 1850.

But this seeming laxness in research never affects the kissing problems of the movie cameraman. Period Now or Period Then, that worthy has a job with every kiss.

He must never, for one thing, allow the hero's nose to hide the heroine's face. (He is saved from the reverse problem by the fact that any heroine with a nose capable of hiding a hero's face would not be in pictures.) He must also, in certain cases, so arrange his lights and angles that what appears to be a kiss on the screen really need not be a kiss at all but merely a pose designed to look like a kiss to the camera.

The least of his kissing problems, however, remains Fred Astaire. Fred is a kissless star, no matter how romantic, in all his pictures.

When John Ford is directing a picture, you can visit the set and be fairly certain in advance you'll see a prison or dungeon or other dreary scene.

It wasn't a dungeon in "Four Men and a Prayer" the other day—just a drab cellar armory where some tropical insurgents were storing guns against the day. But the heavy stone arches, the atmosphere of darkness, suggested a jail.

Other Ford pictures, not always dominated by such sets, have had their share of them. "The Informer," remember? And "The Prisoner of Shark Island," and "The Plough and the Stars" and "The Hurricane."

He isn't partial to jails. It just happens that any extra-virile screen subject that comes along gravitates naturally in his direction, like one drop of quicksilver to another. Jails and dungeons seem to belong in those subjects.

When John Ford undertakes a parlor-society-pink tea movie with Noel Coward dialogue Hollywood might as well shut up shop.

Man Learns Pity, Love Are Akin

By VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I'm considering marrying a young widow of my age, who has twins that are two and a half years old This girl is very much of a mama's girl, and while she was married the first time, spent the biggest part of the time at her mother's house. The husband was run over very much by the mother-in-law, and finally got filled up and pulled out.

"In the beginning I poked fun about the girl. Later I started going with her occasionally for lack of someone else to go with. As time went on I found myself feeling sorry for her or sympathizing with all her troubles. I've been told that it is sympathy and not love.

"My folks have no use for the girl and tell me I'm stepping in 'hot water.' Somehow I feel myself man enough to handle the mother-in-law situation I'm also very fond of the children. Do you feel that I know my own mind?

"UNDECIDED."

You have found that "pity is akin to love," haven't you, Undecided? I wonder if your sympathy will continue after you have married the girl. Will you expect her still to run home to mother when things go awry in your household—as they will sometimes, no matter how happy you are with her?

The real point of the matter is—is this young person enough of a woman to stand on her own feet and be a good sport? She evidently didn't show herself such when living with her first husband. It is very commendable for a woman to love her mother devotedly and show it, and even to seek her advice when her own experience fails in certain emergencies. But if she has from childhood been used to running to mother to be protected from her woes, whether she is to blame for bringing them on herself or not—then, my boy, you are not going to be very happy in this marriage.

She evidently has played upon your sympathy, and has made you feel you must protect the poor little thing from a cruel world. That is fine, but there will be times—there always are—when you will want to rely on her to give you courage, and there will be times when she is definitely in the wrong. What is she going to do then? Can you control the mother-in-law angle when she takes her daughter's part against you and you feel she is unfair?

That is the thing you have to consider. If you feel you are "man" enough to go into this marriage and make a success of it under these circumstances—if that is the true situation, and the other man evidently found it was, at least in his case—why go ahead, and luck attend you!

KAY is in love and the boy says he loves her. She is very jealous of him, however, and that causes arguments. Both are in school, and as the boy will finish first, he wants to begin planning to marry. Kay very sensibly tells him they are too young and had better finish school before making plans. The boy's father wants to separate them because he wants his son to be serious and stop running around just for a good time.

How can Kay control her jealousy, and do I think the boy friend should go over to a former girl friend's house to play cards?

I think you are very sensible, Kay, my dear, to insist that you both finish school before you think of marriage As long as you are not engaged he has a right to go where he pleases, and I wouldn't make a fuss about this particular girl, if I were you If you sit tight and don't say a word, but maybe encourage a former boy friend of yours to come over to see you, you will be able to see his reactions. He may be just as jealous as you are then you can say, "What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," you know.

As to the boy's father's objections to you going together, nothing will make a young man settle down, quit running around, and apply himself to business like wanting to marry the girl of his heart. Your boy friend might tell his dad that.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A GORGEOUS PLAY

ONE OF THE most gorgeous of unusual plays is that whereby you shorten your own trumps by ruffing so that you can later use the dummy's then longer trumps to obtain a discard of a blocking card in another suit This form of rare maneuver, which ranks with any "coup" in the game and requires just as far-visioned foresight, has never possessed a name, so far as we know, but is surely entitled to one.

	♠ J 10 8 5 ♥ 6 4 2 ♦ None ♣ 8 6 5 4 3 2
♠ 9 6 4 2 ♥ 10 7 ♦ J 10 9 3 2 ♣ K Q	N. W. E. S.	♠ Q ♥ A Q J 9 5 3 ♦ A Q 7 5 ♣ 9 7
	♠ A K 7 3 ♥ K 8 ♦ K 8 6 4 ♣ A J 10

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

Here East bid 1-Heart. South 1-Spade, West passed, North 2-Spades, East 3-Hearts and South 4-Spades.

Charles H. Goren of Philadelphia was the declarer. The heart 10 was led and East won with the A. He immediately returned a heart which Mr. Goren won. When the play of the spade A dropped East's Q, the bad distribution was disclosed, so Mr. Goren discontinued trumps. He led the club A and followed with the club J, which West won. The diamond J was returned, a club being discarded from dummy. East won and came back with the diamond 5, which was won with the K. The spade 3 was now led to the 10 and the heart 6, which had been carefully retained, was ruffed with South's spade K. The spade 7 was now led to the 8, and on the spade J the club 10 was discarded, the clubs 8 and 6 in dummy providing discards for South's two diamonds.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ K 7 6 5 ♥ 8 4 ♦ A 9 7 5 3 2 ♣ 9
♠ A Q J 10 ♥ 7 5 2 ♦ 6 4 ♣ 6 5 3 2	N. W. E. S.	♠ 9 ♥ J 10 6 3 ♦ Q J 10 3 ♣ 10 8 7 4
	♠ 8 4 3 2 ♥ A K Q 9 ♦ K ♣ A K Q J

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

How should South play for 4-Hearts? West cashed the spade A, followed with a spade, which East ruffed, who then led the heart J.

Household Hints

Menu Hint.

Veal Roast
Potatoes Baked With Meat
Wax Beans Grapefruit Salad
Orange Tapioca Tea

I like a rolled roast of veal, which I wipe with a damp cloth, then put into the roaster with a sprinkling of dried sage, pepper, salt and an onion. I top it with a couple of slices of bacon, and put it into a 350-degree oven. When the potatoes are put in I have found it best to cover the roaster, as the potatoes do not bake as fast uncovered. The pudding recipe is taken from "How to Feed Young Children in the Home," by Mary E. Sweeny and Dorothy Curts Buck, of the Merrill-Palmer Nursery school in Detroit.

Today's Recipes.

Orange Tapioca—One and one-half cups water, one-half cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-third cup quick cooking tapioca, one cup orange juice, one tablespoon grated orange rind, one-half cup irradiated evaporated milk, chilled; one-half teaspoon lemon juice. Bring water, sugar and salt to boil in top of double boiler. Add tapioca and bring to brisk boil, stirring constantly. Place over boiling water and cook five minutes, stirring occasionally Cool, and add orange juice and rind. Chill. Whip milk, add lemon juice and fold into pudding. This will serve six.

Left-Over Roast or Pot-Roast.

Dice the left-over roast, combine it with a cream sauce, and serve in patty shells or on baking powder biscuits Left-over vegetables such as peas and carrots, if there is not enough to serve separately, are often added to the creamed meat.

Slice roast into thin slices and reheat it in a barbecue sauce. Since the meat is already cooked, it needs only reheating. Longer cooking is undesirable.

Dice the last bits of the roast, combine with an equal amount of chopped cooked potatoes Season with salt and pepper and grated onion. Moisten with left-over gravy, and brown in hot bacon drippings.

Keep Beauty At Fingertips With Care

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

THE GIRL of today who realizes the charm that a beautiful hand holds within its grasp, uses a good skin balm or hand lotion on them daily, in order to keep them soft and smooth. And she is particularly careful that her nails are always perfectly groomed and manicured.

Beautiful hands are not only graceful and expressive, but they are also smooth, white and shapely as well. The fingertips are perfectly groomed. They are given corrective treatments the minute they begin to show any least sign of roughness, and no hard, calloused bits of skin accumulate at the sides of the nails or on the tips of the fingers

Harsh, rough-skinned hands certainly do not in any way enhance a girl's allure. Even in the most romantic setting in the world, it's hard for a Romeo to get properly sentimental if the hand of his Juliet feels hardened and toilworn when he holds it. Hands are meant to be soft and smooth, no matter how strong and capable they are, and if they acquire a rough, sandpaperish texture, they lose all their femininity and charm

It is the skin at the sides of the fingernails that generally become dry and rough more quickly than any other part of the hands Through friction, pressure and the like, tiny, rough-edged callouses and hard bits of skin form at the fingertips and around the nails.

Of course, when a girl gets a professional manicure at a reliable beauty salon, these small callouses are usually cut away with cuticle clippers, but I am not very much in favor of this method of eradicating them. Hangnails may develop too easily after such cutting—and hangnails, you know, can be just as painful as they are unattractive. What's more, if the manicurist is at all careless, she may cut a bit too deeply and make the fingertips entirely too sensitive.

A far better and simpler method of ridding the fingertips of such unpleasant deadened cuticle is through the use of powdered pumice and pure olive oil. After cleansing your hands at night, make a paste of powered pumice and olive oil, and apply it generously to the hardened skin.

Allow this paste to remain on for a while, so that the oil may do its work. Then rub the paste briskly over the calloused spots. The powdered pumice will remove any deadened tissue, and the oil will lubricate the skin, thus leaving the fingertips soft, smooth and attractive.

Thighs.

Agnes: Massage your thighs with warmed coco butter to fatten the tissues. Exercises involving the leg muscles will also help to develop your thighs.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Mary's description of her Uncle Dicky as "wanting seventeen things at once," quirked my lips into a smile at the patness of her description. I made no answering comment, however, but devoted myself instead to allaying her fear that Dicky would arrive at the hotel before we could get settled.

"I am quite sure your uncle won't come to the hotel for an hour or more after he gets in," I told her. "He's not going to stay with us, and he has to take his own luggage over to his studio and get himself settled before coming over."

"His studio?" Mary echoed in a surprised tone, and then caught herself up hurriedly. "What's his idea of starting an hour after us? He had all his things packed, I know, for he told me last night you'd done your usual swell packing job for him"

Will Trail Them.

"Yes his luggage is ready," I assented, with a distasteful remembrance of that hour in Dicky's room when I realized that he had things hidden in his desk and bureau drawers which he did not wish me to see. "But he said he wanted to start an hour after us to insure that we had somebody on our trail if there was any trouble with the car. He outlined the route we were to take very carefully, Montauk road to Hampton Bays, turnpike to Riverhead, Middle Island road and Jericho turnpike to the Northern State parkway, thence over the parkways to the Triboro and the East River drive He wasn't going to trail us any farther than that, as we would be well within easy taxi reach of the hotel if anything should happen to the car"

"He must think we're sissies" was Mary's ungrateful comment. Then she added contritely:

"But he's really a darling to take so much trouble for us. I suppose the hour's delay is so he won't be following us closely. He hates that."

Another Reason.

"Most drivers do," I said equably. "I fancy that's part of his reason. The other is his wish to give a little special time to his mother, who naturally likes to have him all to herself occasionally."

"He's the world's best son," Mary commented admiringly, and then turned her speculative attention to the temporary home we were to have for the duration of the rehearsals and the first weeks of the run of the play, if it proved to be a success

"Have you ever been inside the Lansfield?" she asked.

Best Available.

"No, but I understand it has a great deal of charm—is quite individual," I answered, remembering vaguely the admiring comments of an acquaintance who had once lived at the hostelry. "I believe it used to be a co-operative apartment building with hotel service. Some of the original tenants still remain with their own furniture, but the rest have been made into charming suites. I imagine your father-in-law has selected the very best one possible for you"

"Oh! he'd do that little thing," Mary said indifferently. "It would not be consistent with the Philip Veritzen swank not to have the tops. But I just know I'm going to feel as if I were behind prison bars, nevertheless."

Arrive at Hotel.

"Wait until you see the place," I advised her. "You may not feel so 'cribbed, cabined and confined.' And you must remember that Miss Whitlock and I are in no sense jailers."

"Don't I know it?" she rejoined heartily. "But that isn't the fault of my darling papa-in-law. He'd like me to have a ball and chain on each ankle"

I caught back the comment that I was not so sure that it was Philip Veritzen's intention to put a jailer over her, unless by jailer one might mean spy. There was no use in making her any more miserable than she was, and she did not need to be put upon her guard. Miss Whitlock and I would protect her constantly But it was in no happy mood that our journey ended and I entered the portals of the Lansfield hotel.

Where Should Cocktails Be Served?

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs Post: Are cocktails never served at the table? I mean, is it an unfailing custom to serve them beforehand in the living room? So often people arrive at the stroke of the hour set for dinner and there is little time to serve cocktails and have much conversation in the living room, whereas if they had their cocktails at the dining table as a first course, I believe they would drink them faster so that dinner would not have to suffer.

Answer. When you are serving cocktails before dinner, you should always ask people for at least 15 minutes before the hour at which diner is to be served That is, if you are having people for dinner at 7 o'clock, prepare to have dinner announced at a quarter past seven. If your guests are the type who want more than one cocktail and are likely to want to sit around and talk for awhile beforehand, you would better allow half an hour before dinner. Or, if you have one cocktail apiece passed around on a tray and serve nothing with your cocktails, then dinner can be announced almost immediately—that is, in about five minutes. I've never heard of cocktails being served at the table, except in a restaurant. On the other hand, it must be remembered that cocktails have come into fashion within the last few years. In fact, they are a remnant of prohibition Before that they were served only in the host's own smoking room to the men. The rules of etiquette therefore are not definite. Since the repeal of prohibition, people take a much shorter time over their cocktails than they did five or six years ago, and in the average representative house one cocktail apiece is all that is proffered and very little to eat with them.
